New Tariff Bill, With Big Free List, Goes to the House

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The extraordinary session of the Sixty-third Congress called by President Wilson to pass new tariff legislation, began at noon today, with great crowds of spectators in the galleries of both Senate and House.

Popular interest was greatest, however, in the House of Representatives, which, after being called to order by Clerk Trimble, proceeded to the election of Champ Clark as Speaker for a second term. Speaker Clark was given a big ovation as he took the gavel.

Tariff Bill Introduced.

Carrying sweeping reductions in every schedule except tobacco and spirits, the Democratic tariff revision bill was introduced in the House by Chairman Underwood of the Ways and Means Committee. It was automatically referred back to that committee, by which it will be reported to the House within several days.

Many articles of food and clothing classed as necessities of life, are placed on the free list or greatly reduced in duties. Accompanying the bill is an income tax on all net incomes of $4,000 a year or over. The bill is to take effect the day after the President signs it. The main features of the tariff bill are:

Drastic reductions in the chemical and earthenware schedules. Window glasses are reduced from 40 to 28 per cent. on the average.

Duties on pig iron, structural steel and forgings are cut in half.

Bicycles are reduced from 45 to 25 per cent.

The duty on razors is more than cut in half.

Steel rails go on the free list.

Nearly all kinds of rough lumber are put on the free list, with heavy reductions in the finished product.

Sugar Free in Three Years.

A twenty-five per cent. reduction is made in the duty on sugar, with the proviso that in three years it shall be placed on the free list.

The tobacco and liquor schedules are unchanged.

Agricultural products are cut in half, including a reduction in the tariff on lemons, from 68 to 24 per cent. Duties on all articles of clothing in the cotton schedule are reduced about one-half.

Raw flax and raw hemp are reduced about one half.

Raw wool placed on the free list with the retention of only one third of the present duties on most of the woolen manufactured articles in common use.

Moderate reduction in the silk schedule with removal of "concealed protection."

Print paper and Blister placed on the free list.

A slight reduction in jewelry, with rough diamonds transferred from the free list to the dutiable list with a duty of 10 per cent. ad valorem.

Free List Extended.

Many articles are placed on the free list, among them the following: Wood alcohol, charcoal, phosporous, radium salts, sodas, sulphur and tanning materials.

Iron ore, band iron for baling cotton, nails, barb wire, wire for fencing, steel rails, tungsten-bearing ore, cash registers, linotype machines, typewriting machines, sewing machines, typewriters.

Lumber, boards, wagon material, laths, pickets, shingles, hewn and round timbers.

Bacon and hams, beef, veal, mutton, pork, fresh water fish, other fish of a number if varieties, meats of all kinds, lard, tallow, dairy products.

Breadstuffs, including bread, buckwheat, flour, broom corn, maize, corn, corn meal, oatmeal, wheat flour, potatoes, salt swine, sugar of milk.

Bagging for cotton, flax straw, raw wool, press cloth for oil milling purposes, woolen rags.

Wood pulp, print paper, valued at not more than 2½ cents a pound. Hides.

Beef, bran, wheat, screening.

Coal (bituminous and shale), coke, slack, culm waste and shavings.

Gloves, horsehide, pigskin and cattle hides, boots and shoes, harness agricultural implements and leather, including shoe laces.

Much Power Given Executive.

Many important changes are made in the administrative features of the tariff law, and in the place of the maximum and the minimum section of the Payne act, which empowered the President to invoke higher duties against any nation which discriminated against the United States there is a provision giving the chief executive a free hand to negotiate reciprocity treaties with foreign nations the only proviso being that such agreements shall be ratified by a majority of both houses of Congress. Heretofore all treations of such treaties has been accomplished by a two-thirds vote of the Senate.

The trade treaty with Cuba is retained

'HONEY' MELLODY ARRESTED AS HE ENDS TESTIMONY

William J. ("Honey") Mellody, former welterweight champion and a prominent witness in the Federal investigations of the big smuggling frauds in Boston, was arrested on a default warrant today just after he had testified as a witness in a case in the Municipal Court. The original warrant against Mellody accuses him of assault and battery with a loaded revolver on Blanche Fick of Monroe street, Roxbury, a year ago.

As he left the witness stand Mellody was approached by Inspectors Smith and Concannon. Mellody smiled when he was told why he was wanted. He was taken to headquarters, where he gave his age as thirty and his weight as 155 pounds. Mellody wore smoked glasses as a result of an operation on one of his eyes in New York a month ago. He was taken to Charles street jail while his friends made efforts to arrange bonds for him.

Mellody was found guilty of assault last Fall. He appealed and furnished bail. Then he defaulted.

Poet Noyes Says World Peace Lies With America

PHILADELPHIA, April 7.—"America alone can dissolve the tremendous armaments of Europe and turn the nations of the world to peace," was the assertion of Alfred Noyes, the English poet, in an address before the Ethical Society in this city.

"Each nation is at present maintaining a great army and navy because its neighbor is," declared Mr. Noyes. "The future lies with America. Let her lift the sublime torch of peace above the world and the nations of Europe will turn their eyes to it. To America will go the homage and reverence of all ages."

"The game of half-witted children; a stupendous modern financial gamble; a multimedical problem of slaughter, and a thing absolutely without the faith of the people," were some of the terms applied by Mr. Noyes to war as practiced in Europe today.

"The Great Green Table" was the subject of the poet's address. "Seated about it," said he, "are the nations of the world spending hundreds of millions of dollars on a dead thing while their peasantries starve.

"Today war is promoted mainly by the greed of land. The present system is against nature. It is an anomaly which will end either in disaster or in the final establishment of permanent peace."

TRUCE IN PHONE STRIKE ORDERED

A TELEPHONE OPERATOR AT WORK—A snapshot made today of one of the most painstaking and efficient switchboard operators in Boston. She is a type of the young women who for hours patiently answer calls, most of the time having half a dozen calls to handle at the same time.

State Board of Aribtration Brings Operators and Company Together and No Report on Conferences Will Be Made Till Wednesday—Strike Vote Taken Today.

The first step in the efforts to prevent a general strike of the 2,200 girl telephone operators in Greater Boston was taken by the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration today. As a result of the board's action a committee representing the union conferred with the telephone company officials this afternoon in an attempt to settle their differences without a strike.

WILL REPORT RESULTS ON WEDNESDAY.

This conference means that there is no likelihood of a strike within the next forty-eight hours. Both the union and the company have agreed to report the outcome of their conferences to the State Board on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

At this afternoon's conference the union committee and President Spalding of the company discussed the suggestion of the State board that they try to settle as many differences as possible and that both sides agree to an arbitration of all matters on which they cannot agree.

The conference is in line with the suggestions made in the AMERICAN'S editorial today calling for an amicable adjustment of the present differences.

Voted on Strike.

Meanwhile the telephone operators voted today on the question calling a strike. Under the plans of the union leaders this vote will be counted late tonight, but no definite action will be taken pending the outcome of the conferences between the girls' committee and President Spalding.

Mayor Fitzgerald said this afternoon that he is confident the telephone controversy will be settled without a strike. He said he is prepared to do all in his power to avert a strike, "which would seriously cripple the business of Boston."

The Mayor was kept busy answering call from prominent business men who urged him to do his utmost to avert a strike.

After conferring at the State House with representatives of the union and of the company the State Board gave out this statement:

Responding to the invitation of this board, this morning representatives of the parties to the telephone controversy appeared and the board conferred with them.

At a result of the interview, the board advised that the parties should continue their conferences in an effort to adjust the differences which exist between them.

This was acquiesced in by the parties and they are to meet this afternoon for a further conference between the committee of the employes and President Spalding of the telephone company, conference to continue in a effort to adjust all matters of dispute between them.

The settlement by arbitration of such matters as the parties may not

STEAMER TEXAS IS SALVAGED BY THE FRANCISCO

The Wilson Line steamship Francisco from Hull, England, reached Boston today with the story of how Captain Clark and his crew salvaged the Gothenberg steamer Texas when she found the latter ocean craft disabled at sea.

The Francisco and the steamer C. F. Tietsen, bound for New York, picked up the S. O. S. wireless call for help from the Texas March 22. Both rushed to the disabled Texas. The Tietsen took the forty-three passengers off and the Francisco then took the Texas in tow and started for St. Michaels. Three days later in a heavy gale the tow lines broke and the Texas went adrift. It was a seventeen hours' fight to get the Texas in tow again. Sailors on the Francisco in small boats braved the high sea. Finally the lines were made secure and the steamer and her tow made for St. Michaels, which was reached without further mishap.

JUST A FEW SNOW FLURRIES, BUT NO BLIZZARD NEAR

It snowed several times today, but don't be alarmed. Weather experts atop the Federal building stated that no blizzard was in sight.

"Just a few snow flurries," they said. "There's no storm in sight. The cause is a change in the temperature in the upper air. Absolutely nothing unusual for early April, as our records show."

New England isn't the only place on the map that experienced April snow "showers." The flurries appeared as far west as the Great Lakes.

HAVERHILL GAS MASTER IS NAMED

Judge Dodge in the United States Court today appointed Robert G. Dodge master to hear the suit of the Haverhill Gas Light Company against the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. The gas company has raised a constitutional question as to the right of the Legislature to set the price of gas in Haverhill at eighty cents per thousand feet.

ADMIRAL EATON IS DEFENDED BY SELFRIDGE

Rear Admiral Thomas O. Selfridge, United States Navy, retired, in an interview with the AMERICAN'S Washington correspondent dismisses as "all rot," the stories that Admiral Eaton was a mixer of subtle death-dealing poisons. It has been asserted that fellow officers could show that Admiral Eaton was expert in poisons.

Admiral Selfridge was a close friend of Admiral Eaton. He commanded the famous expedition to the Isthmus of Darien during the Grant administration. Admiral Eaton was a junior lieutenant in the party.

"The stories that Admiral Eaton was expert on strange poisons are absurd," said Admiral Selfridge today. "There really is no foundation for such yarns.

"Eaton was a level-headed man, not eccentric in any way.

"Eaton was a junior lieutenant at the time," Admiral Selfridge continued. "He was about twenty-six years of age and one of the most loyal and trustworthy young officers in the service. I selected him for many important and daring expeditions across the territory where the canal now is being dug.

"I have known Eaton ever since that time. I knew his first wife very well, and they both have been my guests in this very house. I never knew the second Mrs. Eaton, but heard that she met the Admiral through nursing his first wife, and that he married her soon after the latter's death."

"Was Admiral Eaton addicted to the excessive use of any drug or liquor," Admiral Selfridge was asked.

"No," he replied. "He never indulged

ESTHER CLEVELAND IS NOT ENGAGED, SAYS MRS. PRESTON

CALDWELL, N. J., April 7.—In a letter to William N. Van Wart, secretary of the Grover Cleveland memorial committee, Mrs. Thomas F. Preston, formerly Mrs. Grover Cleveland, denies that her daughter, Miss Esther Cleveland, is engaged to be married. Mrs. Preston says that the report of her daughter's engagement has been circulated all over the country, and that both she and her daughter feel much distressed at the rumor.

ADVANCE CURRY ON BOSTON & ALBANY

H. J. Curry, trainmaster on the Boston division of the Boston & Albany Railroad, has been appointed superintendent of the Albany division of the road, including the main line and all branches between Springfield and Albany. His headquarters will be at Springfield. S. H. Clark, now superintendent of the Albany division, is appointed assistant superintendent of both the Boston and Albany divisions. Mr. Clark will continue his headquarters at Springfield, and will have special charge of the examination department of the road. Sher dan Bisbee has been appointed trainmaster at Beacon Park in place of Mr. Curry.

HOME ECONOMY URGED BY SMOOT

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Senator Smoot has a plan to reduce the cost of living which he hopes to see Congress adopt, which he says would cost the United States about $500,000 annually and save millions to housewives.

"Such legislation," the Senator said, "would rob the American garbage can of millions of dollars annually, by teaching young girls how to purchase properly, prepare and cook food and how to utilize the food that is left over."

POWERS WILL LAND MARINES IN MONTENEGRO

LONDON, April 7.—The international war fleet which is making a hostile demonstration in the Adriatic Sea, off the Montenegrin coast is preparing to land a force of marines unless the Montenegrin government drops its defiant attitude within three days.

However, according to an announcement from Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign minister, in the House of Commons today, no troops will be landed from the fleets without orders from the governments represented.

The fleet has been increased to ten warships, and two other German ships are expected to join the fleet Wednesday.

That the international agreement to make Albania autonomous probably averted European war is the belief expressed in high diplomatic circles.

Albanians were menaced with complete subjection by Servia when the powers stepped in and demanded that Albania should be made into a separate kingdom.

COURT REJECTS PURE SYRUP LAW

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The validity of the Wisconsin pure food law requiring that cans of syrup bearing labels to indicate the nature of their contents was denied today by the Supreme Court.

FIND DEATH OF ORPHAN IN HOTEL WAS ACCIDENTAL

WOONSOCKET, R. I., April 7.—In announcing that they have definitely established the identity of the man who was with Miss Cora Deaties several hours before she died by gas in the Woonsocket Hotel, the police today said that they are satisfied that the sixteen-year-old orphan's death was the result of an accident.

Consequently, the police stated, they will no longer search for the missing man. All the police would say was that he is a resident of Maine, is the father of five children and had been visiting relatives in Woonsocket.

BILL PROVIDES FOR DIPLOMATS' HOMES

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The first bill introduced in the House today was a measure by Representative Henry of Texas providing appropriation for leasing and furnishing official residences for American ambassadors and ministers abroad. It also authorizes the Secretary of State to investigate the feasibility of purchasing the residences. Henry also reintroduced the resolution to change the date of the inauguration and the terms of Congress, and a resolution providing for publicity of campaign funds in presidential primaries and elections.

MANY WORCESTER PEOPLE TAKEN ILL

WORCESTER, April 7.—So many people are ill here that only fifty-six beds are available for the sick in the Worcester hospitals. A wave of illness has swept over the city since January 1. Pneumonia and bronchial affections are the principal cases reported. For more than two weeks the City Hospital has refused to receive private room patients and has been compelled to use extra beds in the wards to accommodate its patients.

CAPSIZING OF BARK COSTS 15 LIVES.

PORTLAND, Ore., April 7.—Fifteen of the twenty men who were aboard the German bark Mimi which capsized yesterday off Nehalem spit were drowned. Among the dead is Captain Albert Crowe and several engineers who were directing the work of getting the vessel off the beach when she struck on February 13. Too much ballast had been taken off preparatory to floating the vessel.

CAN'T SLEEP, WANTS PLANT RESTRAINED.

A rattle of tin pans and the crash and bang of machinery in he General Baking Company is alleged to have been the cause of keeping Katie Bornstein awake more or less since 1906, and to have made members of her family ill. Katie Bornstein asked Judge Hardy for an injunction to restrain the company from operating its plant between the hours of nine at night and seven in the morning. Judge Hardy denied the injunction, but the merits of the care will be heard later.

LOWELL GIRL, 17, IS ASPHYXIATED

LOWELL, April 7.—Miss Claire Donovan, seventeen years old, of No. 33 Smith street, was suffocated by illuminating gas while asleep. The cause of the accident is thought to have been a defect in the gas pipe.

CONFER ON MAINE COMPENSATION BILL

AUGUSTA, Me., April 7.—A committee of conference of the Legislature is considering the workmen's compensation bill. It was agreed to except the provisions for employes of lumber and river driving concerns.

LENA BRADLEY, BOSTON CUSTOM FRAUD SUSPECT, IS FOUND IN NEW YORK

Mrs. Nicholas Schram, better known as Lena Bradley, younger sister of Mrs. Terrance L. Sheviin of Somerville, who has been sought by the Federal authorities for ten days, is under surveillance in New York City. She was found in New York yesterday by treasury agents on information furnished by the Boston officers. She will be brought back to Boston in a day or two.

It was learned today that Mrs. Schram has been in New York for the past two weeks. Report has it that she left Boston with Mrs. Sheviin, who was located there by Boston customs officers, induced to return to Boston and then arrested.

United States Assistant District Attorney William H. Garland confirmed the report that Lena Bradley had been found. He said today:

Found Sunday, Says Garland.

"Fifteen minutes ago I was talking over the long distance telephone with Assistant United States District Attorney Pratt in New York. Mr. Pratt announced that New York treasury agents have located Lena Bradley.

"I cannot go into details except to say that Lena Bradley will be here when we want her. She was found in New York city Sunday.

"When will the Grand Jury begin its investigation of the smuggling frauds?" Mr. Garland was asked.

"The Grand Jury will convene Tuesday," he said. "I don't expect to get the evidence in the smuggling frauds much before Wednesday afternoon. The estimate of 100 witnesses being summoned is inaccurate. The transactions now under investigation will not necessitate the calling of more than thirty-five or forty witnesses. It is impossible, however, at this time to tell in advance how many more there might be.

"I expect the Grand Jury will sit the balance of this week and a good part of next week on the evidence to be submitted to it in the smuggling cases."

No Arrests Until Next Week.

This statement by the Assistant District Attorney is taken at the Federal building to indicate that there will be no arrests until the end of next week.

District Attorney French has been so pressed by routine business he has turned over the prosecution of the smuggling cases to Mr. Garland, who will be assisted by Assistant District Attorney Daniel A. Shea.

Additional subpenas were issued by the bailiffs of United States Marshal Gu Murchie today summoning witnesses to appear before the federal Grand Jury Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Terence L. Sheviin, the Somerville couple under arrest with Miss Kate A. Brennan, the New York dress maker, in connection with the Boston customs frauds, of which the Sheviins are said to have been the "brains," were both lovers of luxury.

Kellher Frequent Visitor.

Friends of the Sheviins tell of their generosity in entertaining at Boston cafe and hotels and especially in their cottage at Kenberma, Nantasket, where the welkin rang lustily, judging from gossip.

"Big Bill" Kellher was a frequent visitor at the Nantasket cottage, and it is said that the late Martin Walsh and others with faro affiliations were also guests.

Report also has it that bridge whist and poker were played for high stakes and that fashionably dressed modiste and others often played with greater recklessness than the men. Feasts and musicales were frequent.

Sheviin has long been popular in the "tenderloin" of Boston. His position at the Custom House and his relation and friendship with Boston men of prominence gave him considerable prestige.

He was a big, handsome chap until a stroke of paralysis five or six years ago. Prior to that time he had been deputy collector under Collector George H. Lyman, the predecessor of Former Mayor Edwin U. Curtis.

Daughter of Widow.

His wife was Anne W. Bradley, daughter of Mrs. Daniel Bradley, a Somerville widow. Mrs. Sheviin's sister is the wife of Attorney John P. S. Mahoney of Lawrence. His sister, Sarah, is the wife of Judge Reddy of Amesbury. Lena Bradley, whom the authorities are seeking in five States, married "Billy" Hafford, the professional ball player of Somerville.

Mrs. Sheviin's brother, Daniel H. Bradley, is clerk of the Somerville District Court and lives with his widowed mother at No. 19 Concord avenue, Somerville.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheviin have seven children. Their live at No. 1 Aldersey street, Somerville.

The federal officials charge that while Sheviin was deputy collector under Lyman he had control of the duty on all personal baggage on incoming liners.

Lived Far Beyond Means.

At that time sheviin got $2,500 a year. Associates and federal officials allege he lived far in excess of that. That is the nature of the evidence collected at any rate, according to report at the Federal Building, where it is estimated the Sheviin household expenses ran as high as $8,000 or $10,000 a year.

Seen a Five-Ton Derrick? Notify Your Uncle Sam

Has anyone seen Uncle Sam's five-ton derrick?

It is only fifty-five feet long, but is lost, strayed or stolen.

The United States authorities would like to know who took it early today from Parker's wharf, Northern avenue. They asked the police of the City Hall avenue station to try to find out.

The City Hall avenue officers gave it up. They said it looked as if the derrick might have gone down the harbor. Perhaps harbor pirates took it. The case is being vigorously investigated by the harbor police, who say no one can steal a derrick fifty-five feet long and get away with it under their eyes.

MAYOR BARRY SWORN IN FOR THIRD TERM

Mayor J. Edward Barry was inaugurated for the third successive time Mayor of Cambridge today. It was the sixty-eighth inauguration and was held in City Hall.

Mayor Barry is the thirty-fourth Mayor of the University City and the seventh to have been honored with more than two successive terms. Judge Almy of the Cambridge District Court administered the oath of office. Bouquets of flowers were banked all about the chamber.

Before election Mayor Barry was asked if he intended to remain single. He remarked that he would be married if "the right girl should come along." After this remark the Mayor received reams of correspondence. Asked today if he had found the girl yet, Mayor Barry said:

"Not yet."

Many of the cards attached to bouquets were in feminine handwriting.

The Rev. Michael J. Doody, permanent rector of St. Mary's Church, Cambridgeport, said the prayer. James F. Black, senior member of the Board of Aldermen, called the aldermen together. Nelson C. Metcalf performed a similar act for the common council.

Nelligan Heads Board.

The Board of Aldermen organized and elected Peter J. Nelligan of North Cambridge president. John H. Lynch was elected president of the Common Council.

The ushers who served at the inaugural were John J. Doyle, Thomas F. Good, Joseph L. Lynch and George R. Cashman.

Mayor Barry, assisted by his sisters, Albie C. and Catherine G., received in the Mayor's office following the inaugural ceremonies.

Mayor Barry in his inaugural address dwelt on the necessity of new buildings to house the police department, the extension in numbers and in rank of superior officers in this department and the purchase of auto trucks for the fire and street department.

Mayor Barry said he proposed to appoint an advisory commission made up of citizens of different political parties and representing the various interests of the city to consider the Charter question.

Mayor Barry referred to the proposed improvement of Harvard square, plans for which had been submitted by the Harvard Square Business Men's Association and afterwards given the benefit of the advice of experts from Harvard appointed by President Lowell. The result of this co-operation he promised to lay before the citizens in printed reports.

For More Playgrounds.

"In spite of the fact that the city had a larger total number of diseases dangerous to the public health reported in 1912 than in 1911," said Mayor Barry, "the general death rate of the city for 1912 is the lowest on record."

The Mayor urged the immediate consideration of the question of Cambridge becoming a part of the Metropolitan Water system under the bill now before the Legislature. He also advised the transfer of the Park Department to the Metropolitan Park Commission, the city to assume the bonded indebtedness for the work done in the past.

More playgrounds, especially for Ward 8, and a floating bathhouse on the river front he mentioned as needs of the people.

In the department of public safety controlling the fire and police departments Mayor Barry advised the necessity of motorizing certain pieces of fire apparatus in different sections. He favored a loan for this purpose.

Mayor Barry in recounting the condition of the school department paid high tribute to Superintendent Michael H. Fitzgerald and his assistant, John J. Mahoney.

Mayor Barry advised that the location of a site for the proposed city hospital, over which there has been a conflict between the trustees and the council, should be left to the wisdom of the hospital trustees.

Enforcing No-License.

"The citizens of Cambridge have again voted in favor of no license," said Mayor Barry, "and they are entitled to have that policy carried out. The problem of enforcing no license is not an easy one to solve in so far as the express business and the druggist situation is concerned. The situation is serious, and the city authorities whose duty it is to see that the law is enforced have found themselves obstructed on every side in their endeavor to abolish this evil.

"There is one way in which the citizens of Cambridge can help, and that is by organizing public opinion on the subject. While it is almost impossible to enforce the law, because of its technicalities, it is possible to train the searchlight of public opinion upon the subject, and thus deter those druggists whose consciences and whose moral standards are so low that they habitually break the law and run counter to the expressed will of the citizens of Cambridge."

NO SHORTAGE, BUT ICE PRICE GOES UP

WORCESTER, April 7.—The price of ice in Worcester has been advanced to forty cents per hundred although Worcester ice men admit there is no shortage in the crop. The increased cost of harvesting the crop and increased cost of handling ice that has to be freighted into Worcester each season is given as the reason.

CONGRESS IS CONVENED IN EXTRA SESSION

and provision is made for absolute free trade with the Philippines. They would be, hereafter, according to the terms of the Underwood bill, no restriction on the amount of rice, tobacco and sugar that could be imported free from the Islands.

As an assurance against any duties on the bill being ultra-protective, it is provided that the President shall cause to be ascertained each year the amount of imports and exports of all articles, with an estimate of the amount of domestic consumption and production, and where it is ascertained that the imports amount to less than 5 per cent. of the domestic consumption he shall immediately notify Congress in a special message of his facts and recommend barring on the articles.

This provision, according to the committee, is to maintain the tariff on a "competitive" basis.

Heavy Duties on Luxuries.

A provision in the bill also prevents the importation of obscene pictures or post cards or any obscene matter.

In accordance with its policy of placing heavy duties on luxuries, and reducing the taxes on the necessaries of life, the committee has transferred alum and roses from the free list and made it dutiable at twenty per cent. ad valorem. Perfumery is slightly increased. Perfumed toilet soap is reduced from fifty to forty per cent.

Chinaware is reduced from sixty to fifty-five per cent. Glass and marble manufactures are also given slight reductions.

The present duty of 45 per cent. on automobiles is left unchanged. Shortly there is given a reduction of about 8 per cent.

Aeroplanes are reduced from 45 to 25 per cent. Bamboo is reduced from 45 to 20 per cent.

Cavlar remains at 30 per cent. and preserved fruits are reduced from approximately 90 to 70 per cent.

Lace Curtains Reduced.

The duty on olives is changed in application, but the present duty is practically allowed to remain. Nottingham lace curtains are slightly reduced.

Oriental rugs and carpets are reduced from 50 to 50 per cent. Billiard and pool balls remain at 50 per cent., but firecrackers, which have enjoyed a protective duty of 125 per cent., are reduced to approximately 98 per cent.

The 50 per cent. on fans is allowed to stand. Jewelry is reduced from 74 to 60 per cent. Laces and embroideries, concerning which the committee heard many protests against reduction, experience the nominal cut of 2 per cent. to 60 per cent. Every tasks are transferred from the free list and made dutiable at 20 per cent.

Some of the reductions in the agricultural schedule are: horses from 25 to 10 per cent, cattle from 25 to 10, sheep 15 to 10, barley 45 to 25, macaroni 45 to 25, oats 45 to 30, fruits 57 to 15, figs 51 to 42, lemons 68 to 24, live poultry 13 to 6, vinegar 33 to 17.

In the cotton and woolen schedules the reductions are of a sweeping character. Cotton thread is reduced from 35 per cent. to 19 per cent.; spool thread, 22 1 15; cotton cloth, 42 to 26; waterproof cloth from 50 to 25; ready-made clothing from 50 to 30; collars and cuffs from 64 to 25; plushes from 51 to 40; handkerchiefs from 59 to 30; cotton gloves, 80 to 35; cotton underwear, 60 to 25, and damask, 40 to 25.

Woolen Yarns Cut Hard.

Woolen yards are reduced from 70 to 20 per cent.; blankets, 72 to 25; flannels, 93 to 25 and 33; dress goods, 90 to 35; clothing, 79 to 35; webbings, 82 to 35, and carpets, 82 and 60 per cent. to 35 and 20 per cent.

Jute yarns are reduced from 26 to 15; cables and cordage, 6 to 4; oilcloths 44 to 15, and linen handkerchiefs, 50 to 35.

Partially manufactured silk goods have been reduced from 21 to 15, and silk spun yarns from 37 to 35. Sewing silk duties are cut from 35 to 15, and silk handkerchiefs 50 to 40.

Silk ribbons undergo a reduction from 50 to 40, and artificial silk yarns go down from 41 to 25 per cent., and braids and embroideries and the like from 68 to 60 per cent.

Paper Schedule Cut.

Higher grades of print paper are given a duty of 12 per cent. instead of 15 per cent. Parchment paper is reduced from 47 to 35. Photographic paper is given a nominal reduction from 20 to 25.

Writing paper is reduced from 45 to 25. The reduction in common wrapping papers is from 35 to 25 per cent. The reduction in duties on books is from 25 to 15 per cent.

Suffragettes Ply the Torch to an Old Mansion

LONDON, April 7.—After a respite from arson over Sunday, the militant suffragettes again took the torch today. A handsome, unoccupied mansion, known as "The Chase," at Norwich, was destroyed by incendiaries, with a loss of thousands of dollars.

The houseboats on the Thames are being watched in consequence of warnings sent to the police that the suffragettes intended to destroy them.

The Holyoke golf course at Liverpool, where the open championship will be held in June, is being watched by guards by day and night.

POLICE FIND BODY; HUNT IDENTITY OF SUICIDE IN RIVER

After grappling nearly nine hours in a rain and snow storm, early today, Sergeant Brelvogal and Patrolman Rogers of the Metropolitan Park Police recovered the body of the unidentified young man who jumped to his death in the Charles River Basin from the Cambridge side of the West Boston bridge.

The body at the North Grove street morgue is that of a man about thirty-two, five feet six inches tall and weighing about 150 pounds. The clothing was of fine texture. He was smooth-faced and had light brown hair. He wore dark clothes, with black laced shoes and stockings and a light Spring overcoat.

WILSON WARNED TO KEEP OFF GRASS

WASHINGTON, April 7.—President Wilson unwittingly violated the new traffic regulations of the national capital. He walked with Secretary Tumulty to the Tumulty home, and, when returning, they cut across Pennsylvania avenue, they cut across diagonally toward the White House. A policeman informed them that they should cross only at corners.

CERRETTI MAY BE PAPAL DELEGATE

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Gossip from Rome among churchmen here indicates that Mgr. Bonaventure Cerretti, former secretary to the Apostolic Legation at Washington, will be designated by the Vatican as papal delegate to the United States. He may, however, be recalled to Rome to act as auditor of the legation there. An additional attache is expected to be added to the papal establishment here.

Betraying New England!

Conclusion of the remarkable true story by Mr. John F. Moors—a story of such absorbing interest that two big editions of the March New England Magazine have been sold out.

Part II. with synopsis of Part I. appears in the April New England Magazine.

Here are some of the spots illuminated by this story:

Who instigated the bitter attacks on the New Haven Road, and why?

Are these attacks justifiable or not?

What is the truth about them?

Does New England want persecution or fair play?

Mr. Moors has had the courage to take the hitherto unpopular side of this fight and he hits right from the shoulder with facts and figures—

Everybody interested in business stability should read this story, "Betraying New England." Many thousands have read the first part—the second part with synopsis of the first is to be found in

OLD FOLKS FIND NEW REMEDY RELIEVES ALL KIDNEY AND BLADDER MISERIES

Drives Rheumatic Pains Away, Relieves Backache and Bladder Disorders After A Few Doses Are Taken

Sleep disturbing bladder weaknesses, backache, rheumatism, and the many other kindred ailments which so commonly come with declining years, need no longer be a source of dread and misery to those who are past the middle age of life.

The new discovery, Croxone, relieves all such disorders because it removes the very cause of the trouble. It seeks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the little filtering glands and cells, and gives the kidneys new strength to do their work properly. It neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; and makes the kidneys filter and sift out of the blood, various waste matter from the blood and drive it out of the system.

It matters not how old you are or how long you have suffered, Croxone is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. You will find it different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work immediately and more than a few doses are seldom required to relieve even the most chronic, obstinate case.

You can obtain an original package of Croxone at trifling cost from any first-class druggist. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case.

INCOME TAX BILL, GIVEN TO HOUSE, HITS YEARLY REVENUES OVER $4,000

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Levying a tax on the income of every citizen of the United States who receives more than $4,000 a year, the income tax bill was introduced in the House this afternoon as a part of the Democratic tariff revision measure.

The bill was drawn by the House Ways and Means Committee, and is said to have the approval of President Wilson.

It imposes a tax not only upon the incomes of individuals, but also upon the incomes of corporations, joint stock companies and associations, the latter feature being a substitute for the corporation tax law which, under the terms of the new measure, would be repealed.

Interest on Federal, State, county or city bonds is exempted from taxation as well as the compensation of President Wilson during his present term of office, the compensation of all Federal judges now in office and the compensation of all officers and employes of a State or any political sub-division thereof.

How Tax Is Graduated.

The tax is graduated as follows:

One per cent. a year on the income of each taxable individual on the amount by which it exceeds $20,000 and does not exceed $50,000; two per cent. aditional on the amount by which it exceeds $50,000 up to $100,000, and three per cent. additional on the amount by which it exceeds $100,000.

The following table shows how the tax per year would be levied on sums from $7,500 to $125,000:

| Income. | Tax. |
|---|---|
| $7,500 | $37 |
| 10,000 | 60 |
| 20,000 | 160 |
| 30,000 | 360 |
| 40,000 | 560 |
| 50,000 | 760 |
| 60,000 | 1,060 |
| 70,000 | 1,360 |
| 80,000 | 1,660 |
| 90,000 | 1,960 |
| 125,000 | 3,200 |

What Net Income Includes.

The net income of a taxable person, according to the bill, "shall include gains or profit or income derived from salaries, wages or compensation, for personal service of whatever kind and in whatever form paid, or from professions, vocations, businesses, trade, commerce or sales, or dealings in property, whether real or personal, growing out of the ownership or use of or interest in real or personal property, also from interest, rent, dividends, securities or the transaction of any lawful business, carried on for gain or profit or gains or profits, and income derived from any source whatever, including the income from but not the value of property acquired by bequest, devise or descent, and also the proceeds of life insurance policies paid upon the death of the person insured."

In computing the "net income" there may be deducted the necessary expenses of carrying on business, but not personal or family expenses, all national, county, State or school taxes, uninsured losses by fire or the elements, losses due to worthless debts and a general allowance for wear and tear. No deductions may be made for improvements which enhance the value of property.

Joint Incomes Affected.

A deduction may also be made where the tax has already been collected upon dividends of a taxable corporation or business enterprise. The bill is so framed that if a husband and wife have a joint income of $7,000 they must pay a tax on $3,000 and if the wife is living apart from her husband permanently she may be taxed independently.

Each person having an income of $3,500 a year or more must make a sworn statement as to his income to the collector of internal revenue each year. Such returns must be made by March 1 each year. The tax is payable on June 20.

Guardians and trustees must make returns for the interests which they have been named to conserve. Penalties are provided.

All business concerns and corporations are made liable for the payment of the taxes on the incomes of their employes or other persons to whom they pay money, and they are further compelled to deduct sufficient money to pay the tax and turn it over to the government collector. Failure to make returns under the law entails a penalty of $500, and any person making a fraudulent return is liable to a fine of $1,000 or a prison term of one year, or both.

Fraternal Societies Exempted.

Labor, agricultural and horticultural organizations, as well as sick benefit, fraternal and building loans societies, are exempted from payment of the tax.

The method of computing the net income of corporations, joint stock companies and associations under the bill is much the same as that followed under the corporation tax law.

Returns filed with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue shall be open to inspection as public records, but only upon the permission of the President. To insure the privacy of returns, it is provided that no person may print or publish them unless authorized by law, and the publication may be punishable by a fine of $1,000 or a prison term of a year.

The collectors are clothed with broad powers of search. The law would apply to Porto Rico and the Philippines and would be applicable to "every person residing in the United States," as well as citizens of this country.

PADDON OPENS BOSTON FIGHT ON MORMONS

Rev. W. M. Paddon, D. D., of Salt Lake City opened a campaign against Mormonism in Park street Church today under the auspices of the Anti-Mormon Association. He gave a history of Mormonism as he has seen it in fifteen years residence in Salt Lake City, and declared that Senator Smoot would not dare to repudiate publicly the righteousness of polygamy. Dr. Paddon said:

This cult that I have come to talk about today is polygamous. All the prophets, seers and revelators of the cult from Joseph Smith to his nephew, the present prophet, have been polygamists.

The Mormon church goes out of its way to insist upon the rightfulness of plural marriages. Mormons are taking new plural wives today. There is a list of 230 new plural marriages published today in Salt Lake City.

All the Mormon church asks of the new polygamist is that he will not flaunt his plural relations in the face of the Gentiles, or that if he is caught that he will not lay the blame on the church.

Let me tell you that the Mormons are prosecuting each other in the matter of new monoshine marriages. It is the one matter which they will lie about with unction.

The federal government must deal with this evil. This means that the Constitution of the United States should be amended to enable us to put counterfeit marriage under federal penalties law.

Mormonism is a carnal cult. Its religious ideas are of this earthy. The people are taught that there are a plurality of Gods which have a plurality of wives.

NEW BEDFORD MAN IS SLAIN BY STREET GANG

NEW BEDFORD, April 7.—Five minutes after he had bade his sweetheart, Miss Albina Normandin, good night, and in sight of her, Arthur Bodreau, known also as Arthur Greenwood, was murdered last night by five men whom he tried to stop fighting. A stab wound in the right lung caused death.

John Dunnigan, thirty-four, and Joseph Manuel Servia, thirty-three, are held by the police for the killing.

The two men were brought before Judge Frank A. Milliken in the District Court today on a charge of manslaughter. At the request of the prosecution they were held for a hearing on April 16 in $10,000 each.

RILEY IN CAPITAL TO GET SPEAKERS TO AID MITCHELL

Chairman Thomas P. Riley of the Democratic State Committee, is in Washington today to enlist a number of party leaders of national prominence as speakers in behalf of John J. Mitchell in the Congress campaign in the special election in the Thirteenth District. Judge Riley also intends to call upon President Wilson and discuss the political situation in Massachusetts.

WIDOWS WILL NOT VISIT TITANIC SCENE

Mrs. Charles Copeland of Scituate denies the story that Mrs. Jacques Futrelle and two other women whose husbands were lost in the Titanic disaster plan to visit the scene of the disaster on the anniversary, April 15. A New York newspaper published a story that Mrs. Jacques Futrelle, Mrs. Henry B. Harris and Mrs. George Thorne would strew flowers upon the waters in the vicinity of the disaster. Mrs. Copeland is a sister of Jacques Futrelle.

FIND METEORITE THAT FELL IN 1912

NEWPORT, R. I., April 7.—The meteorite which fell last September on the grounds of Ocean Lawn villa, the Summer home of Mrs. T. A. Shaw, has just been located by John Samuels, gardener on the estate. The meteorite weighs fifty pounds, is of gray color and sank far into the ground when it fell. It is of a substance like iron, but so hard that a file makes no impression on it. Columbia University wants the meteorite, but it will probably be sent to the laboratory of the Coles School, Newport.

GIVE PAINTING OF SELF TO CURLEY

Congressman Curley, on the eve of his departure for Washington, was presented with a full length painting of himself at the last meeting to be held in the old Vine street Church before its demolition. John E. Gilman made the presentation speech.

MRS. HELEN BOYNTON and Rev. William B. Ayres of Wollaston, whom Chester A. Boynton is suing for $25,000 for alienation of his wife's affections.

BOYNTON LOVE SUIT AGAINST PASTOR OPENS

After the defence had challenged two jurors, the trial of the alienation suit of Chester A. Boynton against Rev. William B. Ayres of the Park and Downs Congregational Church of Wollaston, was begun today before Judge Lawton and a jury in the Suffolk Superior Court.

The suit for $25,000 damages for the alienation of the affections of his wife, Helen, was brought by Boynton last June. It is sooner had it been filed than wide dissension was caused among the members of the Park and Downs Church. Two factions were formed, those who sided by the pastor and those who sided with Boynton.

Mrs. Boynton was in court today.

There was much discussion in Wollaston today over the fact that Boynton has not been admitted to fellowship in the First Congregational Church at Revere, following the filing of his suit a meeting of the Park and Downs Congregational Church was called on July 5 and during cases of disorder, in which Boynton was fined, he was suspended from membership in the church.

Mrs. Boynton was present at this meeting. On February 2 the church summarily excommunicated Boynton.

A recent "ex-parte" council, comprising the pastor and one layman from each church in the Suffolk South Congregational Conference, found Boynton had been "unduly and illegally excommunicated by the Park and Downs Church." His admission to the Revere church followed.

MRS. MADERO NOW ACCUSES ENVOY WILSON

NEW YORK, April 7.—Senora Sara Perez De Madero, widow of the murdered President of Mexico, in an exclusive statement for the AMERICAN today, said the charges filed at Washington Saturday by Luiz Manuel Rojas, a member of the Mexican Congress, against Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson were well founded.

She blames him for the death of her husband and Vice-President Suarez. Ambassador Wilson, she declares, had knowledge in advance of the coup d'etat which overthrew the Madero government. She says he conferred with Huerta on the disposition of Madero and Vice-President Pino Suarez and advised the dictator to "do what he thought best for the interests of the country."

In so many words, Senora Madero declares Ambassador Wilson informed her that Pino Suarez could not be released, but would have "to disappear," by which the senora understood that he was to die. She charged further that in a pathetic interview which she had with Ambassador Wilson, at which she invoked the aid of the United States to save her husband's life, the ambassador refused to accept such responsibility, and later suppressed a telegram which the mother of the murdered President had prepared to be sent to President Taft beseeching his merciful aid.

Finally, Senora Madero detailed a most remarkable interview she had with Ambassador Wilson, in which the latter said to her:

"I will be frank with you, Mrs. Madero. Your husband's downfall is due to the fact that he never consulted with me—he never wanted to advise with me.

Not until Ambassador Wilson made emphatic denial, through the AMERICAN yesterday of the charges filed at the State Department against him by Luis Manuel Rojas, who is also Grand Master of the Masonic Order in Mexico, did Senora Madero consent to tell her remarkable story.

"I speak," she then said, "because of my duty to the memory of my husband."

METROPOLITAN OF SMYRNA IS SLAIN

ATHENS, April 7.—The Metropolitan of the Greek Catholic Church, stationed at Smyrna, has been murdered according to a telegram received here today by way of Constantinople. The Greek Catholic Metropolitan, or patriarch, at Smyrna is head of the Smyrna see and wields extensive authority among the Christians of that district. The assassination is attributed to a Mohammedan.

METROPOLITAN PARK POLICE FOR HOPEDALE

More than a score of Metropolitan Park policemen left the South Station for Hopedale today for duty in connection with the strike at the Draper shops. The detail was made up of men from several stations most of them however, being from the Revere station.

Chairman W. B. de Las Casas of the Metropolitan Park Commission explained today that the selectmen of Hopedale had asked for a detail to assist them for a time, and that the policemen are being sent with the authority of Governor Foss.

Preparations are being made in Hopedale today by the company to receive 200 or more strike breakers tomorrow.

The Boston Central Labor Union demands the immediate withdrawal of the Boston policemen from Hopedale, criticising the Boston city officials for having sent them to the scene of the labor trouble. The resolutions in part are:

The Boston Central Labor Union has always stood by the principles of the American Federation of Labor and the inalienable rights of men as expressed in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States.

The Draper company has violated the said principles in the treatment of its employes.

A certain organization has caused a revolt against them un-American conditions.

The Mayor and Police Commissioner of the city of Boston have sent police to the Draper company plant.

Resolved, that we demand the withdrawal by the proper authorities of the Boston police now in Hopedale, and who are thus being paid by the citizens of Boston to protect the interests of an avowed enemy of organized labor.

Prolonging Life In Brights Disease

It is hard for physicians who have had nothing but failure in chronic Bright's Disease to believe that there is such a thing as recovery, and many doubtless honestly feel that patients reporting recoveries under Fulton's Renal Compound are but temporarily benefitted. Let us for a moment refer to the case of the daughter of the late N. W. Spalding, former U. S. Sub-Treasurer of San Francisco.

After her father "had spent ten thousand dollars" in efforts to cure her and the proper cause and the end looked near she was put on Fulton's Renal Compound. To use the words of the physician, he "at last did what was 'temporarily benefitted.'" We must now decide whether a permanent cure, for it is now nearly two years since she is living and attending to her household duties at last advices, in January, 1913.

The case of a well-known editor of San Francisco, whose address we will give to any one who cares to write, was declared to be hopeless. He has been editing his paper for twelve years since then "temporary improvement" he believes to be well and certainly looks like it.

In view of case after case like the above if you have Bright's Disease, you owe it to yourself and family to try Fulton's Renal Compound. Don't experiment with "cure" pads, for if they contain strychnine you are living and attending to your household duties at last advices, in January, 1913.

PHONE GIRLS' LEADER MEETS ARBITRATION BOARD IN PEACE MOVE

be able to adjust by conference is also to be considered by the parties, and answer made to the board upon its suggestion of arbitration by 2 o'clock on Wednesday.

Endorsed by A. F. L.

This statement was made after the conference in the office of the board, at which were present G. M. Bugniazet, who is directing all the affairs of the girl operators, and Former Congressman Samuel L. Powers, counsel for the telephone company. The latter announced that President Spaulding today sent a letter to the union officials in which he said he knew of no reason why conferences between the company officials and the employes should not be continued.

The union announced that it received today 150 new members. It was also given out that the State Branch, A. F. of L., today indorsed the operators in all their demands and will support them in case of a strike.

Company is Confident.

An official of the telephone company said today:

The company wishes to assure its patrons that in the advent of a strike reasonably good service is guaranteed. Inasmuch as many new operators, as well as former operators for the company, have been impressed for service. In all probability we have enough operators to fill the vacancies caused by operators who go out on strike.

It is also the belief of the company that many of its operators will remain loyal to the company, despite the statements of the union that so many are enrolled as its members.

The strike balloting began at 9:30 o'clock. By 8 o'clock a dozen operators had gathered in the union's offices in the Women's Trade Union League Building, No. 7 Warrenton street. When the voting started there were 100 girls present, and groups of others arrived every few minutes.

The first girl to cast a ballot was Miss Mary P. Kelley of the Milton telephone exchange. In the first half hour fifty had voted on the question of whether or not they favored a general strike in the twenty-two exchanges of the Greater Boston district.

How Vote Was Taken.

The union officials present announced that forty new members had been added to the girls' union today. These new members are chiefly from the ranks of the students, who are learning how to handle the switchboard and who have not yet obtained regular positions.

One ballot box is being used. This is placed in a room measuring twenty by ten feet and is in charge of International Vice-President G. M. Bugniazet, the recognized leader of the operators. Near him stood Frank L. Kelley, Eastern district member of the International executive board of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers with which the girls' union is affiliated.

Company Prepares for Strike.

That the telephone company is prepared to fight the strike, is well supported by the fact that during the last forty-eight hours the officials of the company have not only been constantly at work in the offices of the company, but they have exhausted every means of getting in touch with former employes, in an endeavor to secure their services in case the switchboards are deserted tonight.

Boston is hopelessly dependent upon the telephone. A strike would isolate 2,000,000 from one another. It would bring about chaos in business.

When the polls close, the counting of the votes will be done by the international officers in the presence of and with the assistance of the members of the joint executive board.

JAPAN BLOCKING RECOGNITION PLAN

WASHINGTON, April 7.—That the Japanese embassy is blocking Secretary of State Bryan's plan to have a general recognition of the Chinese republic is the opinion of State Department officials. It was declared today that the Japanese Ambassador would not join with other nations in the recognition of China until his government had obtained from the United States a definite understanding as to the possibility of federal protest against the proposed California law prohibiting Japanese from holding or leasing land.

ARREST PICKETS IN PATERSON STRIKE

PATERSON, N. J., April 7.—Seventy-five picketing silk mill strikers were arrested here today charged with unlawful assembly. They had congregated at the I. A. Hall mill and refused to move on when ordered to do so by the police. The strikers had heard that a number of strike-breakers were to enter the mill and were waiting for them.

PITTSFIELD MAN IS KILLED BY GAS

PITTSFIELD, April 7.—F. D. Norton, thirty-six, an employe of the General Electric Company, was found dead in the bathroom of the Wilhelm Tell boarding house here, with the gas turned on. Medical Examiner Henry Colt pronounced death due to accidental asphyxiation. Norton leaves a wife and family in Flushing, N. Y.

GAS KILLS MAINE YOUTH.

Emerson Bennett of Richmond, Maine, a young man registered at the Thorndike House, 90 Green street, was found dead in bed, with the gas jet partly on. Death is believed to have been accidental.

WHAT GIRLS' UNION WANTS.

A wage of $7 a week for the first six months, $8 for second six months, and a yearly raise of $1 a week until, at the beginning of the fifth year, their pay shall be $12 a week.

An eight-hour work-day, with two fifteen-minute rest-periods allowed them by the company during that time. This to be completed in nine hours, including one hour between shifts for luncheon.

Collective agreements, with provision made for hours, wages and working conditions and the right to place their grievances in the hands of a joint adjustment committee, on which their union is represented.

Arbitration of all disputes that cannot be settled in joint conference, with a lasting guarantee for a progressive industrial peace which shall conserve the rights of both parties.

The right to organize as trade unionists, and to carry on their business through their union committees and officers, even as the stockholders of the company carry on business through a board of directors and executive heads.

WHAT THEY SAY THEY GET.

A weekly wage of $6 when placed on the payroll, with thirty-cent raises every six months until it reaches $8.10. Then, yearly raises of thirty cents, until it reaches a maximum of $10, which is paid only after five-and-a-half years service.

An eight-hour day, so-called, with the working hours so split up that some girls are not free to go home until fourteen hours after reporting for duty. In all cases the rest periods are deducted from the girl's working time allowance

Whatever the company thinks it can afford to give, without permitting the girls any voice in the matter. No appeal from the decision of the company's officials no matter how trivial the alleged grievance for which a girl is discharged.

No say in the settlement of any dispute, and the option only of losing their positions by leaving the company's employ, as individuals, or collectively declaring war against the company by calling a strike through their union.

An arbitrary refusal from the officials of the company, representing the organized stockholders, to deal with them in any way other than as individuals, and a denial of any girl's right to combine with her co-employes for their mutual protection.

MEMPHIS SUBURBS FACE GRAVE CRISIS IN FLOOD DANGER

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 7.—With the rise of the Mississippi at 45 feet, here today, the levee workers in the districts north and south of Memphis are facing a crisis in the 1913 flood which promises to be the greatest ever coming to the Mississippi Valley.

Hundreds of men are working to top the Arkansas levee before the crest arrives Thursday. About twenty blocks of city property inhabited mostly by negroes in North Memphis were under water from two to 10 feet deep today, but there was no suffering.

BILL FOR CABINET MEMBERS IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Representative Montague of Virginia introduced a resolution in the House today giving members of the Cabinet the privilege to sit in open House of Congress and participate in debate, and also compelling them to attend the sessions at least twice a month and answer interrogations.

FROST MENACES DELAWARE FRUIT

WILMINGTON, Del., April 7.—Peach growers in this State are greatly alarmed least there be a heavy frost in the fruit belt. Hundreds of bonfires were kept burning all night in the orchards, the thermometer going down to 20.

13 FIREMEN AT QUINCY DROPPED

In accordance with a vote by the Common Council, Mayor Stone of Quincy today notified thirteen call men of the Quincy fire department that they have been dropped from the department. The men are Herbert Tucker, Walter P. Hill, Edward Druhan, Thomas Carrigan, Joseph L. Travus, Bliss ross, Herbert S. Mackay, Charles E. Hayden, James Sullivan, Edward Desmond, James Cregan, Arthur Ryan and Frank Call. Maurice Gatcomb forestalled the action of the Council by offering his resignation. The dismissal of the men followed an agitation over the failure of many members of the department to respond to alarms.

MRS. STOKES FOR MILITANT METHOD

BALTIMORE, April 7.—"I can see great reasonableness in the tactics of the militant suffragettes in England, and could even conceive that the taking of human life might be excusable in their fight for the ballot," said Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes, wife of John Graham Phelps Stokes, millionaire Socialist, of New York, who, with her husband, is on her way from Florida to New York.

REPORT 33 DEAD IN TRAIN WRECK

BUDAPEST, April 7.—Thirty-three persons were reported killed and seventy injured at Ogulin Croatia today when a steamer train collided with an express on the Hungarian State Railway.

The two trains met head on. Both locomotives, an express car and a sleeping car of the express train were telescoped.

FOSS ACCEPTS RESIGNATION OF NORMAN WHITE

Governor Foss today accepted the resignation of Norman H. White as chairman of the Commission on Economy and Efficiency which Mr. White tendered on March 15 to become a candidate for Congress in the Thirteenth District. Governor Foss in accepting the resignation says:

I have given very careful consideration to your letter of March 15, asking to be relieved of your duties as chairman of the Commission on Economy and Efficiency.

I have, however, postponed action on this matter, because of your exceptional qualifications for the position, and my sincere regret at your desire to withdraw therefrom.

Recognizing the propriety of your action in withdrawing, in view of your other plans and duties, however, I have now decided that I have no alternative but to accept your resignation. Yours very truly,

(Signed) EUGENE N. FOSS.

In resigning his position, Mr. White said:

Although I should personally prefer to serve the State in my present position, I conceive it my duty, in view of the unexpected Congressional vacancy, to attempt, at least, to sustain the wishes of those citizens of various political parties of the district who have expressed the belief that at this particular time the district needs my services.

WOMAN IS HELD ON POSTAL CHARGE

Charged with sending objectionable matter through the mail, Miss Mabel H. Wilson of Cliftondale was before United States Commissioner Hayes today, and was held in $300 bail for a hearing on Friday. She secured bail. Miss Wilson is charged with sending letters containing scurrilous matter to Mrs. Angus McDougall of Amesbu, Ct. She was arrested by Deputy United States Marshal Ruhl.

Doctors Use This for Eczema

Dr. Evans, ex-Commissioner of Health, says: "There is almost no relation between skin disease and the blood." The skin must be cured through the skin. The germs must be washed out, and no salves have been found worthless. The most advanced physicians of this country are now agreed on this, and are prescribing a wash of wintergreen, thymol and other ingredients for eczema and all other skin diseases. This compound is known as D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema.

Dr. Hoines, the well-known skin specialist, writes: "I am convinced that the D. D. D. Prescription is as much a specific for eczema as quinine for malaria. I have been prescribing the D. D. D. remedy for years for Eczema, Salt Rheum, Tetter, Psoriasis and all skin diseases. It will take away the itch the instant you apply it. One 50c can get enough for 30c to prove full benefit.

In fact, druggists are so certain of what D. D. D. will do for you that they will be glad to let you have a $1 bottle on their guarantee that it will cost you nothing unless you find that it does the work.

Ask also about D. D. D. Soap; it helps.

MITCHELL SURE TO WIN IN 13TH IF DEMOCRATS GIVE HIM FORMER VOTE

Ladies and Gentlemen:

If I am elected to the office a candidate for which I come before you this evening, I give you my solemn pledge that I shall at all times conduct myself as if I were in the presence, and under the eye, of every man and every woman within the sound of my voice tonight.

And I would make a further pledge.

Ever and always during my term as a public servant, I shall have in mind the men and the women—and the boys and girls—who get up early in the morning to hurry to their toil in the great factories of this district.

I may not bring to this office the high degree of ability, or yet the deep learning, that have characterized many who have served you in the past; but in this presence I make a solemn vow to follow, to the best of my ability, such a course as will merit the approval of every honest man in the community.

Ten years ago a young Democrat uttered these pledges in the theatre out at Marlboro, thirty miles west of Boston, before a houseful of friends, neighbors and acquaintances. He was a candidate for the House of Representatives in a district until that time regarded as "hopelessly Republican." The young man' name was, and is, John Mitchell. At that time he was the Marlboro correspondent of a Boston morning newspaper. Today he is a practising attorney.

Mitchell made his pledge slowly, impressively, as if he felt the full meaning of every word.

And the people of Marlboro, believing, elected him.

Well, what of it?

Mitchell Kept Faith.

Young men, honest young men, God-fearing young men, ambitious young men, have made the same pledge before; haven't they? And they have gone away to the capital, haven't they? And they have walked uprightly and surely for a time, cheering the heart of every good man and every good woman "back home," and then, one fine day, they have met and fallen before Temptation and they have either gone the bad old way, of the political Down-and-Out or, of more masterful timber, have climbed upon the chariot of Mammon to ride to high pleasure grounds of ease. Isn't that so?

Every word of it, BUT

John Mitchell kept the faith!

John Mitchell, tall, handsome, self-reliant, John Mitchell, is a man unique in politics.

You may go to the State House, and you may there study the roll calls of each and all of the several years in the Massachusetts Legislature—for Marlboro and the Senatorial district sent him back again and again, and ever and always you will find that John Mitchell was recorded for human rights for the rights of the people; never against the honest employer, never against the square-deal corporation, but consistently in favor of the men and the women—and the boys and the girls—who get up early in the morning to hurry to their toil in the great factories of every district in Massachusetts.

So much for Mitchell in the Legislature.

Since which time he has four times been pitted against Republican millionaires in the Congressional district. And he has been once successful.

Until Republican legislators last Summer cut the State into new Congressional districts, Marlboro was in the old Fourth District, along with Leominster and Fitchburg and Gardner, Mitchell's first adversary was the late Congressman Charles Q. Tirrell, who had been in Congress for so many years that he had built up an almost invincible "Tirrell machine." Tirrell had been known to go to the polls without a Democratic opponent! Republicans were actually shocked, therefore, when John Mitchell came within 2,000 votes of the goal. Mr. Tirrell died during the term which followed and the district was called upon to elect for the remainder of his term and for one full term at the same time.

Fought With $76.

Mitchell won the unexpired term by twenty-four votes.

He lost the full term by 120 votes.

Then they cut his city out of the Fourth District—needless to say to the perfect satisfaction of his second millionaire rival—and they put him in the Thirteenth, with the multi-millionaire Weeks to "go against."

Here the other day, when prominent Democrats, assembled at the City Club, raised $1,000 to pay the expenses of the present Mitchell campaign, John Mitchell, a poor young lawyer of forty, confessed that the total assistance he received last Fall in his battle with John .T. Weeks amounted to $76!

Imagine fighting Weeks on seventy-six dollars!

Weeks fought the battle of an astute politician for a great stake, for Weeks had his eye on the seat of Winthrop Murray Crane in the United States Senate, and Weeks won, but Senator Weeks, who has remained Congressman Weeks for the next two years, would not have represented a majority of the voters of his district. His two rivals topped the Weeks vote between them by 8,302 votes.

This was the vote last November. Study it, you Progressives who are truly progressive and who seriously desire THIS TIME to defeat the G. O. P. machine. Study it, every Democrat and who take courage from it, every Democrat, and decide today, every Democrat, to let nothing keep you away from the polls on Tuesday of next week!

Mitchell has a claim on every citizen of Massachusetts of progressive tendencies.

And today the reward of this plucky progressive, this sterling young Democrat, is at hand if—

There you are, "IF"?

If every Democrat of the 13,383 who voted for John Mitchell last November will be sure to go to the polls on Tuesday of next week, and vote for him again, nothing can prevent the election of Mitchell to the Democratic Congress of the United States.

Note this, you Democrats from Ashland to Wrentham. Mitchell's cause is in your hands. You certainly, is the time for all good men to come to the aid of one who blazed the trail of progress through the politics of Massachusetts.

Mitchell's place is in the present Democratic Congress. To put him in better there, for the Thirteenth Massachusetts District, and for all the people of New England, this even the most steadygoing, even the most dependable of Progressive party men.

And Mitchell WILL go to Congress if every Democrat in the district who reads these lines resolves, here and now, to go to the polls on Tuesday of next week and do his duty faithfully.

J. H. SHEA, WHITE CAMPAIGN WORKER, THROWN FROM CAR

John H. Shea of No. 202 Fairmount avenue, Hyde Park, a leading worker in the Congressional campaign of Norman H. White, the Progressive candidate in the Thirteenth District, was thrown from an automobile, and badly injured, today, when the tire on a rear wheel came off.

The accident occurred on Commonwealth avenue, Newton, as Shea was returning from a conference with Progressive leaders. Shea's injuries consist of body bruises and a fractured arm.

The machine in which Shea was riding was owned by Norman White, and driven by Norman Xavier of No. 285 Bellevue street, Newton. The cause of the accident was a tire coming off a rear wheel. Shea was taken in the police ambulance to the Newton Hospital.

MITCHELL RALLIES TONIGHT IN NORFOLK AND NEARBY TOWNS

TOMORROW — Southboro, Ashland, Sherborne and Hollliston.

WEDNESDAY — Wellesley, Needham, Lasells Seminary, Auburndale and in all sections of Newton.

THURSDAY—Walpole, Medfield, Millis and Medway.

'ALL ROT' SAYS SELFRIDGE OF EATON STORIES

is stimulants to excess. As for using drugs, the idea is preposterous. Eaton was above anything like that."

An Expert on Steel.

Admiral Selfridge said that he knew that Admiral Eaton went to Pittsburgh to study the steel business, and that he became an expert there on the making of steel and was very valuable thereafter to the government.

"You know that cyanide of potassium, one of the deadliest of poisons, is used freely in steel foundries.

"Could it have been possible that Admiral Eaton, through curiosity, began experimenting with the poison, and that it was this experimentation which his wife now declares became a sort of a mania with him?" was asked.

"No, I don't think Eaton was that kind of a man. He would not was so foolish as to experiment with something so deadly and useless. I think such inferences are all rot," was the answer.

Admiral Selfridge said there was nothing eccentric or suspicious in Eaton's nature.

The most important developments in the case locally today are:

Today's Developments.

That arsenic was purchased in Hingham drug stores by persons then living in Nantasket. The purchasers are known to the police.

That Mrs. Eaton has prepared voluminous notes to establish her innocence and given them to her counsel now preparing her defence:

That Admiral Eaton and Mrs. Eaton were married in the Summer of 1906 in Boston, while they occupied a Summer cottage at Hull.

To Visit Woman Tuesday.

Mrs. Eaton's counsel, Attorneys W. A. Morse and Francis J. Geogan, who are preparing a defence which they assert will establish her innocence, will hold a conference today.

They are in receipt of several notes Mrs. Eaton has prepared for them while a prisoner in the jail. These notes Mrs. Eaton has worked on practically all of her waking hours. They contain much information of the relations between Admiral Eaton and the family known only to herself.

Following the conference over the notes Mrs. Eaton's attorneys will visit her tomorrow in the Plymouth jail and go over those points carefully with her.

Now important Mrs. Eaton and her counsel believe these notes are was shown by Mrs. Eaton's refusal to take time enough from their preparation to attend the religious services held in the jail.

AMERICAN reporters called today the place and date of the marriage of Admiral and Mrs. Eaton.

Mrs. Eaton in 1906, a few months after she had secured her divorce from Dr. Henry Ainsworth, rented the Tudor cottage in Hull.

During the latter part of June after Mrs. Eaton had occupied the cottage two weeks with her daughter, Admiral Eaton came from Washington and visited her.

William E. Sheriffs, a real estate agent from whom Mrs. Eaton rented the cottage, said today:

I think the police will have no difficulty in establishing the fact that Admiral Eaton and Mrs. Eaton were married in Boston in July or August, 1906. In June Mrs. Eaton rented the Tudor cottage from me.

She was joined there two weeks later by Admiral Eaton. I remember after they returned to Hull Admiral Eaton acted as if he were insanely jealous of Mrs. Eaton.

Mrs. Eaton was in bathing one day when I came along the beach. She complained to me she had trouble with her eyes.

"It's probably due to the salt water," I told her.

The next day I met Admiral Eaton. He appeared quite angry.

"What do you mean by insulting my wife?" he asked. I was astounded and could not make out what he was driving at.

"You have no business talking to her about her eyes," he said.

I had a hammer in my hand and I said to him, "What are you doing? Trying to start something?" You're crazy. If I've insulted your wife I apologize to her. But I didn't think it was insulting a woman to simply speak to her."

"I don't want you to apologize to her," said Eaton. "I don't want you to have anything to say to her."

I didn't know what to make of him. Finally I concluded he was just crazy, and let it go at that. It was Mrs. Eaton who hired the house and it was she who paid me the rent money.

Neighbors of the Eatons at Assinippi recalled today that when Mrs. Eaton took a trip to Washington last Spring, Admiral Eaton told several of them the presents bills to him that "the was broke."

He had to give Mrs. Eaton all my pension money," he told them, "to pay her expenses to Washington." What Mrs. Eaton went to Washington for at this time the police are now trying to find out. They would like to ascertain if Mrs. Eaton met her former husband during the trip.

With Admiral Eaton in the Spanish War

By LIEUT. B. B. McG.

A companion in arms of Admiral Eaton, Copyright, 1913, by American-Journal-Examiner. All rights reserved.

Admiral Eaton's actions as commander of the Resolute in the battle of Santiago won for him the respect of his men and the commendation of his superiors.

That the commanding officer, Sampson, and Captain Taylor of the Indiana, placed great faith in Commander Eaton's observations of the engagement is shown by the reports they transmitted to the naval department, in which high tribute is paid to Commander Eaton.

To those of us who know Commander Eaton intimately, who saw him in those trying days when the safety and lives of all of us depended on his judgment and efficiency, the stories of Mrs. Eaton that the Admiral was a victim of the liquor or drug habits appear absurd.

In the first place the Resolute was under the drastic discipline of war times. It is well known that the use of liquors is strictly prohibited. The discovery of a supply of liquor, even in an officer's room, would have led to serious trouble for that officer, if it did not end in a court martial. To say that Admiral Eaton while commander of the Resolute was addicted to the excessive use of liquor can be refuted by hundreds of naval men, members of her crew and scores of prominent civilians and army officers who came in direct contact with him at that time.

To digress a moment. I remember when the Resolute had on board the evacuation committee following the war. The presence of so many influential civilians and officers of the volunteers composing the committee suspended for a while the usual drastic discipline.

During the trip down to Havana these civilians and officers considering the trip in the nature of a junket, wined and dined to their heart's content. As commander of the Resolute and host, Admiral Eaton occupied the seat of honor at the mess table. But while the others regaled themselves with expensive wines and delicacies it was freely remarked that Commander Eaton was never known to touch any liquor. How farcical in the face of his actions at that time are the stories of his being addicted to the excessive use of liquor and drugs.

Shortly after noon on the day of the Battle of Santiago, the Indiana guarded the entrance to the harbor after having practically destroyed the Teresa, Vizcaya and the Oquendo. The Resolute was lying close beside the Indiana. What follows was perhaps one of the most dramatic moments of the war and had a mistake been made by Commander Eaton an Austrian ship would have been fired upon and serious complications brought on with that government.

About 12:30 the Resolute came within hail of the Indiana, and responded to her captain, H. C. Taylor, that a Spanish battleship was sighted to the east and heading towards the Indiana. Later the Harvard caught and confirmed the report of the Resolute, adding that the advancing vessel was painted white.

DOROTHY EATON GOES BACK TO SCHOOL TASKS

Dorothy Ainsworth Eaton, stepdaughter of Admiral Eaton, today returned to her studies with the junior class of the Norwell High School. She has been absent from school four weeks, since the death of the Admiral.

This morning, accompanied by her friend and playmate, Earl Ainsley, she walked from the Eaton home the half mile to the Assinippi postoffice, where they both boarded a trolley car for the school.

Classmates of Dorothy surrounded her in the corridor of the schoolhouse and she held a reception before the session began.

State Officer John H. Scott and John T. Condon, deputy sheriff of Rockland, are keeping up the search for the second will said to have been made by Admiral Eaton. Although the Eaton home has been ransacked from top to bottom and many persons in Assinippi have been examined, no trace of the document has been found nor witnesses to the instrument discovered.

The will of Admiral Eaton now in the hands of Judge Keller of Rockland, counsel for Mrs. Eaton, has not yet been filed at the Plymouth Probate Registry. The items in this will are said to be, so at variance with the expressed wishes of the Admiral, made before his death, that State officials are keeping up the hue for another will. The statement of Dorothy that she saw another will also leads them to keep up the search.

HOUSE TODAY GETS FACTS ON "PURE CANDY"

By HARRY P. CASSIDY.

In the hurry to adjourn Friday afternoon, the House of Representatives failed to give proper consideration to a bill forbidding the sale of "brandy drops" and similar confections. The bill was expected to be reconsidered today, and Mr. Cassidy urges that it pass.

A measure to prohibit the sale of so-called "brandy drops" and other candies containing more than one per cent. alcohol will be considered in the House of Representatives today.

This bill was beaten Friday, as a result of a hurried vote, when the House was anxious to finish its business and adjourn. The short time prevented those in charge of the bill from presenting the facts about it to the House.

The present Massachusetts law prohibits the sale of brandy drops and similar candies to children under sixteen. The measure up today prohibits the sale of such candy to any one.

Here are the two sides of the question—"Should this bill pass?"

Those who wish to make or sell brandy drops say, "This is a harmless candy, and does not contain enough alcohol to intoxicate any one. It is a pleasant flavor for candies, and should pass."

On the other side we have the fact that "if candy may contain brandy, it may contain any other liquor. So you may get eventually a candy with a heavy percentage of alcohol. Such candies would nullify the no-license law in 'dry territories,' and might easily cause untold harm."

The bill undoubtedly should pass. Alcohol is all right in its place. I'm a temperance man, but I have no objection to others drinking if they wish to.

BUT MEN AND WOMEN SHOULD NOT BE GIVEN LIQUOR IN THE DISGUISE OF CANDY, and this bill would stop the manufacture of such candy.

Representative Washburn of Worcester and Representative White of Newton fought the bill. Representative Washburn introduced an amendment to the effect that no conviction should be allowed under the prosecution could prove the seller "knew" the candy contained the excess of alcohol.

Old Familiar Joker.

That's the old familiar joker in fool laws—word "knowingly." The House has repeatedly gone on record against its use in food legislation. Representative Washburn's amendment was to counbed that not one in five of the Representatives knew what it meant.

The food laws show the only instances where ignorance is a defence from prosecution for violation of the law.

The auto-speeder is fined, whether he "knew" he was speeding or not.

The thief is imprisoned, even though he protest he didn't "know" he was stealing.

You can go right through the statute books and multiply instances where the law provides punishment, and does not allow ignorance of the law to serve as a defence.

Representative Isaac Gordon said Friday:

"I believe the House acted on this bill without understanding it. I shall move reconsideration on Monday, and I feel sure that after the true nature of the bill is explained, it will pass."

Another food bill will be brought up for Wednesday's session. It is the bill "relative to falsely labelling and stamping articles of food."

Senator McLane of Fall River fought the passage of the bill. He is expected to lead the fight to defeat it when it comes up Wednesday.

The purport of this bill is—that no packer of food products may put a lie on the label of his goods.

Offers a Loophole.

The present law allows him to tell lies if he can prove that he didn't KNOW he was lying. And of course, any violator of this law needs only say—"I didn't know!" to escape scot-free. Inspector Joseph L. Johnson of Cambridge testified before the committee on Public Health that he had found it impossible to secure convictions under the present law—that the offenders simply dodged out through this loophole in the bill and laughed at him.

It takes no great amount of common sense to see that any violator of the law can claim he didn't KNOW he was doing wrong. So long as this claim is a valid defence—the law is worthless.

Senator McLane apparently doesn't want this law to amount to anything—doesn't want any protection allowed the consumer—doesn't want the manufacturer forced to see to it that his labels tell the truth.

TUESDAY'S THRONGS SHOULD BE AS BIG AS MONDAYS

Because relatively as great incentives are here to attract them. We have planned to make the movement cumulative in interest. There'll be no diminution, no abridging, no lessening, no abatement of the money-saving chances. As soon as one lot goes another equally desirable is ready to take its place. Therefore, as the week nears its end, you'll notice no shrinkage in the assortments. All who come Tuesday should make a special point to return Wednesday.

Suppose you need $5.00 or $500 worth of merchandise of the class we sell. Suppose we said to you: We will supply all the skill and power that we can command to secure what you want from manufacturers and importers at half their regular prices, and pass them on to you at practically the bare cost to us of handling. Under such circumstances wouldn't you appoint us your merchant—make us your commissioners—your goods brokers? Well, that's what we do during the Thoroughfare Celebration Week. We may not fill your needs at half price, nor even at a third less than regularly—not in all cases—but we do this in many instances. However, the savings you may enjoy on everything is substantial and the most extravagant thing you can do is not to take advantage of them.

WASH GOODS

An enormous drift of Colored and White Wash Goods has come to the counters for the Thoroughfare Sale. Manufacturers and importers have done their best for the event. Scores of items are ready and anxious to be quoted—but we have space for only three or four.

RIVERS PICKED TO BEAT CROSS IN BIG BATTLE

By JACK CONWAY.

JOE RIVERS and Leach Cross clash in the most important ring contest of the week in New York tomorrow night. The bout is scheduled to go ten rounds and is sure to be witnessed by a record-breaking crowd of fight "fans."

Rivers and Cross are both fighters through and through. Neither of these lightweights have ever been classed with the scientific glove wielders, but they usually do not experience a great deal of difficulty beating the clever men.

Rivers is the logical opponent for Champion Willie Ritchie and after he completes his schedule here in the East will take a rattler for the Coast, where he hopes to secure a bout with the king of the 133 pounders.

These two healthy young gladiators met recently in the big village and Rivers won. The honors were fairly even until the last two rounds when the Mexican loosed his himself out and fought like a wild cat. Cross was sweet on his feet and experienced some trouble in preventing himself from going to the canvas.

The dentist, however, failed to go into mourning because he lost to Rivers. It was far from being so. He signed for a little bout with Joe Mandot and Young Reams. Rivers had always claimed that Mandot was the best man in the 126 pound weight class, barring himself. Cross, however, was not in the least bit frightened by the Frenchman's reputation and was rude enough to give him free transportation to Dreamland. The East sider is anxious to vanquish Rivers tomorrow night, as he believes that if he can do this that he will be in a position to demand a title bout with Ritchie.

THE popularity of boxing was proved by the great crowd which attended the bouts of the the New England amateur boxing championships which were held in Mechanics Building on Saturday night. Close to 5,000 people witnessed the festivities. Included in that vast throng were doctors, lawyers and business men. It was a fine tribute to the A. A. U. and showed that our leading citizens are eager to attend boxing contests when properly conducted.

It is to be regretted that it was impossible to stage the final bouts Saturday. The first contest was scheduled to start at 6 o'clock, but it was almost 7 o'clock before the first glove wielders entered the ring.

The New England championships next year will probably be held on two nights, the trial bouts on the first night and the semi-final and final battles on the second evening. Amateur boxing is very popular in this section of the country and it is absolutely impossible to stage a championship tournament on one night where so many lads are eager to win their spurs in the ring.

JIMMY MORIARTY, the veteran Lowell welterweight, and Joe Chick, who hails from Fall River, have been matched to clash in a twelve-round whirl at New Bedford on Friday evening. Moriarty is in the best of condition for the "go" and feels certain that he will be returned the winner. Hector McInnis' protege was scheduled to meet "Young" Gallagher at Albany last Tuesday but the latter refused to box at the last minute. In Chick, Moriarty will be pitted against a strong, two hauled fighter who is sure to cause him a great deal of trouble.

McInnis has also matched Billy Corrigan of Cambridge to meet "Young" Boyle of Lowell in two six-round bouts in Waterville, Me., on April 16. Corrigan and Boyle are both fast and shifty youngsters. They recently fought a great ten-round draw at Portsmouth, N. H.

Corrigan is the former amateur 125-pound champion and has engaged in fourteen contests since becoming a professional, and has yet to be defeated.

DISPATCHES from Philadelphia state that Luther McCarty is training hard for his six-round bout with Arthur Flynn, which is billed to take place in the Quaker City on April 16. McCarty does not intend to take any chances with the hard-hitting Pueblo Dreamer and intends to be in the best of condition when the bell sounds for the opening of the first round. The white hope heavyweight champion should not experience a great deal of difficulty in winning from Flynn. Jim has been on the toboggan for a number of years and is no match for a strong young opponent.

Pilgrims and Baltimore Meet Stallings' Men Watch Giants

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 7.—B-r-r. It's cold in Baltimore. "This is the way it will be on opening days in Boston boys," exclaimed Captain Bill Sweeney to his players as they shivered on the sidewalk in front of the hotel, whither they had gone for a breath of air after breakfast.

The Boston players got in from Washington on Sunday noon. They were greeted here by a little flurry of snow. They came over earlier than they needed to, because they do not play until this afternoon, but the Giants were here to play a Sunday game against the Orioles, and Stallings conceived the idea that it would be well to allow his team to see the New Yorkers in action so that they wouldn't be scared stiff when the two teams meet on the Polo Grounds for the opening game of the season on Thursday.

In spite of the raw weather, the Boston players went out to the park, but, after watching two innings of the game, they got cold feet, to say nothing of cold hands and cold noses so they retreated to the hotel and kept indoors the rest of the day.

GIANTS SHOW SPEED ON THE BASES.

They didn't know until this morning how the game between the Giants and Orioles ended. The score was 4 to 0 in favor of New York when they left the park.

They were impressed with the base stealing ability of their coming opponents.

When Stallings' men line up against the Baltimore team this afternoon there will be a slight change in the lineup.

In order to get more speed up at the top of the list, Hap Myers will be at third instead of seventh, while "Silent John" Titus, who has been putting third, will step down to number seven. Hoy is liable to break out a bunt at any time, and in ordinary games he will get one more chance to do this than if he were batting seventh.

Stallings says Myers will start the championship season at first base. He has fairly earned the right as he outclasses Metz and Calhoun at every department of the game. Metz may be a heavier hitter, but Myers can do more with a bat than Metz can, although he might not drive the ball so hard. Still, it was Myers that cleaned up with a two base drive, when the bases were full at Washington on Saturday.

Calhoun Lacks Experience.

Stallings is impressed with Hap's ability to hit in pinches. "Marv" Calhoun, the other candidate for first base, is a likely looking young fellow, but he needs experience. He will probably be farmed out to some good minor league club.

Stallings is ready to place his extra men right now, but is delayed on account of the illness of President Gaffney. It was expected that Mr. Gaffney would meet the club in Washington, but he had to have an operation performed and is now in a hospital where he will have to stay several days. Stallings may be able to see him in New York and if so the matter of the extra players will be settled.

Stallings has the power to make any arrangements or trades he likes, but at he expressed it to me:

"Mr. Gaffney owns the club, and I think he ought to be consulted as to the disposition of our extra players, I know he will tell me to do just as I please, but it will give me satisfaction and I think give him satisfaction to consult with him on the matter."

The chances are that the Buffalo club will get first chance at whatever players Stallings thinks he can dispense with.

Stallings has been closely affiliated with the Buffalo club for years. In fact he still owns a part of the club and it is only natural that he should give the Bisons first chance at the Boston men.—N. H.

Pilgrims Need Outfielders.

Manager McGraw of the Giants called on Stallings at his hotel last night and the two managers had a long conference. Neither would say what they were talking about, but it is probable that Stallings tried to get McGraw to jar loose a speedy outfielder.

The Boston club is still woefully weak in the outfield. There is not enough speed there, or enough good playing ability.

Jay Kirke is such a poor fielder that Stallings has been forced to place McKechnie back in centre. The latter is anything but a sure catcher and he goes after balls badly, but it must be said for his defence he is in the position he is to him, for he has been playing the infield most of his baseball career. Rossiter, he is hardly speedy enough. The Bostons must have speed to stand any chance in the coming struggle.

Wm Noyes, the Spokane pitcher, has reported. He is in fairly good condition, but the chances are that he will not be used for some time.

Fred Smith, who has created such a favorable impression in practice, will get a chance to try his hand at third base this afternoon. Devlin's slowness was very costly in Saturday's game at Washington. He appears drawn and underweight, and Stallings believes a little rest will do him good. The putting of Smith on third is not by any means a permanent move.

Vacate Baltimore Tuesday.

McTigue, Hogue, Dickson and Gervais, it is expected, will be the pitchers used in the two games against the Baltimore team today and tomorrow. Stallings plans to get away from Baltimore on Tuesday night and arrive with his squad in New York late that evening. Many of the young players will be sent on to Boston on Thursday night after they have witnessed the opening game.

STAR MAT MEN IN THREE HARD BOUTS TONIGHT

WRESTLING CARD.

Charley Cutler vs. Constant Le Marin.

George Lurich vs. Marion Plestina.

"Cyclone" Burns vs. Karl Lemle

The wrestling game, which has been at a standstill in this city for several months, will resume activities in Mechanics' building tonight, when three matches will be staged under the direction of George V. Toomey.

The main match will bring together Constant Le Marin, the husky Belgian grappler, who recently pinned the shoulders of the mighty Zbyszko to the mat in twenty-four minutes, and Charley Cutler, of Chicago, who has shown his wares in this city on several occasions.

Le Marin's fall secured against Zbyszko, although decisive, has been questioned numerous times. It was a big surprise when the wonderful Pole was known by a man whom he had agreed to throw within a limited period of time.

Le Marin Anxious for Go.

Le Marin is anxious to show the local wrestling crowd that this fall was no fluke and the fact that Cutler was picked as an opponent for him should give New Englanders a good line on his ability.

There is hardly a wrestler better qualified to test Le Marin than Cutler. He is Le Marin's equal in weight, strength, and skill and the match gives promise of being one of the best ever seen in this city.

The match between Le Marin and Cutler will go to a finish, best two out of three falls under catch-as-catch-can rules.

George Lurich, who since his last appearance here was beaten by Frank Gotch in a championship match, will meet Marion Plestina in a 45-60 bout. He is not discouraged because of his defeat by Champion Gotch and figures that he did very well for a man so little versed in American rules.

Lurich's aim, which he hurt in his bout here with Zbyszko, is in good shape again and the big Russian is eager to get on the mat with Plestina. He is sure that he will beat Plestina and figures that by doing so he will have at least some satisfaction for losing to Gotch as his opponent is a member of the title holders' camp.

Plestina Has Good Record.

Plestina has never appeared in this city but has made a good record in the West and in Europe. He is several pounds heavier than Lurich.

"Cyclone" Burns of this city will get the chance of a lifetime when he meets Karl Lemle, the Bohemian "Perfect Man." In the opening bout, which will be limited to thirty minutes. This should give the "Terror" a good line on how the "Cyclone" works against a topnotcher and the fans that the time is limited should make the bout fast.

MANY SCHOOLBOY OARSMEN WORKING OUT ON CHARLES

With the B. A. A. and Union Boat Club boats fairly swarming with ambitious school oarsmen, this will be the banner season for the rowing game so far as interest is concerned. At the Union Boat Clubhouse the crews from Stone School, Noble & Greenough, Volkmann and Roxbury Latin have been holding forth. Some schools are able to send out three and four crews.

At the Union float Cambridge Latin, Brookline High, Rindge Tech, Boston College High, Somerville High, Boston Latin and the High School of Commerce lineup about twenty-two crews, including first, second, third and fourth crews.

LEADING PLAYERS CLASH IN TITLE TENNIS TOURNEY

The national court tennis championships will be decided at the Tuxedo Club and Racquet Club this week. Jay Gould, the title holder, will meet the winner of the tournament in the wind-up Saturday noon. The matches began this morning. Play will continue through tomorrow, and the semi-finalists will meet Thursday for the right to challenge Gould and the title.

Charles E. Sands of New York, champion in 1904, and Joshua Crane, another former champion, have entered. From the outside cities are George H. L. Brooks of Philadelphia and W. H. T. Huhn.

EASY FOR CUBS.

CHICAGO, April 7.—The Chicago Nationals defeated the Indianapolis American Association team here, 7 to 3. Cheney did not allow the Hoosiers a hit until the eighth inning. Then an error was made behind him, and Indianapolis secured two hits and scored.

The Sox Arrive Home Tonight Team Ready for 1913 Opening

By R. L. MURDOCK

Jake Stahl's Red Sox will roll into Boston tonight—just one month, to a day, since they left for Hot Springs. There are twenty-six in the party of world's champions, who are on their way east from Chicago, and who are due on a Boston & Albany express at 8:15 p. m. Here they are:

President and Mrs. James R. McAleer, Manager Garland Stahl, Coach Charley Farrell and Mrs. Forrest Cady, wife of the catcher.

Catchers—Carrigan, Cady, Nunamaker and Thomas.

Pitchers—Wood, Bedient, O'Brien, Collins, Hall, Foster and Leonard.

Infielders—Yerkes, Ball, Wagner, Janvrin, Gardner and Engle.

Outfielders—Speaker, Henriksen and Lewis.

Trainer—Joe Quirk.

Harry Hooper and Mrs. Hooper best the Bunch home, arriving Saturday. The wives of the married men will meet them at the Back Bay station. The entire squad has arranged for accommodations for the Summer in Boston, the most of them living in Back Bay apartments.

Report at Park in Morning.

The Sox will report at Fenway Park tomorrow morning for a bit of limbering up work in preparation for the Holy Cross game tomorrow afternoon. The change from the warm climate at Hot Springs and the balmy weather at Champaign, Ill., to the frigid stuff they encounter in the North and East will not help the ball players, so they are all likely to be stiff tomorrow.

Jake Stahl expected to give Harold Janvrin and Host two new twirlers—Foster and Leonard—a trial in the Holy Cross game and the one with Harvard, following on Wednesday.

In those two days the Sox expect to get well acclimated and have their limbs limber.

CARDINALS DEFEAT BROWNS IN GAME

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 7.—A mixture of passes, errors and hits, one of them a triple, off two pitchers in the first inning, gave the local National League club enough runs to win from the Americans 13 to 6 in the fifth game of the series for the championship of St. Louis. The series now stands three won for the Americans and two for the National Leaguers.

BRIDWELL LOST IN FLOODED DISTRICT

CHICAGO, April 7.—Al Bridwell, shortstop of the Chicago Cubs, left more than a week ago for Portsmouth, O., to lead aid to his wife and child in the flooded district, and has not yet been heard from. Manager Evers today burned the telegraph wires in an effort to locate him.

Over 200 People Quit Drinking

A Whole Locality Changed by Movement to Eradicate Drink Habit

In St. Jerome, Quebec, it has been learned, over two hundred people, who have been habitual drinkers, have been cured of this frightful curse. This fact came to public notice through W. H. Scott, Postmaster of that place, who has been actively interested in bettering conditions there. Mr. Scott recently made affidavit to the wonderful work done by Renova, this new remedy that rescued these two hundred people. Renova is the treatment being adopted by wives and mothers everywhere to save their husbands and sons from drunkards' graves; that enables men to go home with full pay envelopes; and that can be given secretly. Get a package of Renova at Riker-Jaynes if you have a dear one who needs help to fight his battle. He won't know he is taking it, for it's tasteless and absolutely harmless. Guaranteed to do the drinker good or get your money back.

If you'd like to try it—free—before you buy a dollar package, write in confidence to the Renova Co., 204 Broadway, New York, for a sample and proofs of what Renova does for victims of intemperance.

HARVARD RELAY MAY BATTLE IN PENN. CARNIVAL

By J. O. JOHNSTONE.

(Champion High Jumper of the United States and Canada.)

Although reports have been circulated that Harvard will not send a team to compete in the Pennsylvania relay carnival, there is still a good chance of the Crimson having a formidable relay go there. Coach Shrubb of the distance runners has received an urgent request from the athletic authorities of the University of Pennsylvania asking him to send at least one team.

Shrubb has expressed his desire of having a four-mile team compete in Philadelphia. He is confident that a quartet of his distance men would make a good showing. All that there now remains to do is to have Captain John Cumming put the question before the executive athlete board.

A team composed of H. P. Lawless, Herbert Warren, H. G. Maclure, and F. H. Hackman, R. Boyt or R. Carter would make any four-mile college relay run fast enough to break the record in order to win.

Off of the field event men entered it would not be surprising to see A. Moffat come home a winner of the high jump. He will, however, have Enright of Dartmouth, a member of the Olympic team, to contend with. These two men tied in the Dartmouth dual meet last year.

Cubis in the hammer throw seems to have things all his own way and should surely win. Cummings thinks that he will make the trip but Jackson will most likely be a point winner in the hurdles.

PAUL POEHLER IN CLASH WITH CHRIS TONIGHT

By J. P. MURPHY.

As a preliminary to the annual tournament of the National Duck and Candle Pin Congress, which takes place at the end of this month and which will mark the close of the present bowling season, John Christopher and Paul Poehler, considered the two best individual pin men in New England, meet tonight in the first ten games of a twenty-string match at the New Boston alleys for the championship of New England and a purse of $500.

Manager Poer of the New Boston alleys has selected the top floor as the one on which the match will be rolled, as it will accommodate the biggest crowd. The contestants will bowl on alleys three and four.

Special Delegations Coming.

The match has attracted considerable attention and indications point to the largest crowd that ever witnessed a local match. Special delegations will come from Quincy, Worcester, Gloucester, Lynn and several other New England cities.

It is a well known fact that no matter when these two bowlers meet, whether it be the height of the bowling season or in the middle of Summer when the game of pins has diminished considerably, they always play to a packed house. The keen rivalry shown between them is a household topic among the bowling fandom and this, more than anything else, is an incentive to bring out the crowd.

Even money is being offered on the match. Of course, there are a few who will give slight odds either way, but these are too few to mention.

Poehler is the Champion.

Poehler is the present champion, a title which he earned by winning the Boston AMERICAN tournament last March. In this same tournament, Christopher, after forging his way through the qualification round, was eliminated by a youngster named Pratt of Malden, who up to that time had been practically unknown in local bowling circles.

On the strength of his victories over Poehler, Chris' chances are at even money. Some of the "fans" are inclined to believe that Chris has about gone his limit and that it is Poehler's turn and these are not in the minority, either. Chris, too, has his followers who are of the opinion that he will win the title.

Chris and Poehler met last year, the first ten strings being rolled at Portsmouth and the second ten at the Boylston alleys. Chris won the match by eight-eight pins, the final scores reading: Christopher 2,068, Poehler 1,980.

Amateur Ring Men Clash in Finals of Title Bouts

PROGRAM OF BOUTS.

108-pound class—Barney Snyder, Boston, v. Edward Donahue, Malden.

115-pound class—Thomas Reagan, East Boston, v. George H. Pritchard, Forest Hills.

125-pound class—F. McManus, Salem, v. Walter Ridge, Brockton.

133-pound class—Michael F. Sullivan, East Boston, v. Walter Butler, Boston.

145-pound class—Joe White, East Boston, v. Charles Askins, Boston.

158-pound class—Daniel McDonald, Boston, v. B. A. Laville, Somerville.

Heavyweight class—Charles Olsen, Somerville, v. James Flavin, South Boston.

The final bouts in the New England amateur boxing championships will be staged in Mechanics Building at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The contests were originally listed to take place Saturday evening, but on account of the large number of boys entered in the title tourney it was impossible to hold only the trial and semi-final bouts.

Some rag and rugged battles should be witnessed today. Barney Snyder of Roxbury and Eddie Donahue of Malden clash in the 108-pound division, and Donahue has been made a slight favorite. He showed very good form in the trials.

Tommy Regan, national 115-pound champion, is expected to prove a little too fast for George Pritchard of Forest Hills in the 115-pound division, while Walter Ridge of Brockton should win from F. McManus of Salem in the 125-pound class.

Mike Sullivan of East Boston and Walter Butler of Boston clash in the 133-pound division and Sullivan is picked to win, while Charles Askins of Boston is the choice over Joe White of East Boston in the 145-pound class.

Dan McDonald looks to be too rugged for B. A. Lavelle in the final of the 158-pound class, while the "white hope" whirl between Charles Olson of Somerville and James Flavin of South Boston is in doubt.

UNICORN TRACK TEAM TO START WORK IN OPEN

By THOMAS J. HALPIN.

(Quarter-Mile Champion of United States and Canada.)

The Boston Athletic Association will start its outdoor training in earnest this afternoon, when the men will have their first hard work-out at Tech Field, Brookline, under the direction of Coach Ryder. It is the plan of the Unicorn to have one of the strongest teams in the history of that club.

The first official meet will be held at North End Park on April 19. This meet is an annual affair and is conducted by the city of Boston, and as a result the prizes will be of the best. It is planned to furnish gold watches to the winners of first and second places.

This meet will attract a large number of college as well as club men, as it gives the coaches a chance to size up their men for the coming season. All of the principal track athletes in New England will take part in this meet.

Oscar F. Hedlund, the most promising miler in the East, who is a member of the Unicorn Club, will not be a competitor this Summer as his business demands his attention. Ryder will, however, attempt to change Equene Marceau into a first-class miler. The former Tech star has been running over the half mile route since joining the B. A. A., but his stride and physique lend more to the mile distance.

Marceau, with James Powers, will make a fine team over this distance. Dave Caldwell, who is attending Cornell, will run in the half mile events during the season. Caldwell with able training should be one of the greatest half-milers in the United States. He has a wonderful constitution and this, with his great strength and speed, make him a dangerous man in any company.

52 Candidates Out to Win Places on Yale Tennis Team

NEW HAVEN, Ct., April 7.—Yale has started a boom in tennis, having just built seventeen new courts on the new Hill House property on Whitney avenue, giving the university the most extensive facilities of any in the East. Fifty-two men are out for the team. Captain Gates believes that this number will be doubled during the Spring as there are about 300 lovers of the game who have begun to play.

Of last year's intercollegiate team, Captain Gates, Mann, Peaslee and Evans are in college, and of last season's substitutes, Ewing, Cunningham, Lockwood, Lightner, Stanley, Slocum, Badger and Johnson are promising material.

HERE'S A NEW ONE, BOXER SUES CLUB FOR K. O. INJURIES

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., April 7.—Joe Wilber, local lightweight, who was considerably walloped by Frankie McCann of Scranton, Pa., in their bout before the Non-pareil A. C. of New York last week, has retained an attorney to press a claim against the club for injuries received in the knockout that McCann administered in the fifth round.

Wilber sets up the claim that his antagonist, by the medium of his punches, so disarranged his map and anatomy that he has to stay in his home ever since and that he feels entitled to refund for physician's fees, for attendance of nurse, medicines, time off, etc.

Nature's Own Wrapper Keeps Tobacco Best

The Natural Leaf Wrapper is valued highly because it enables the manufacturer to give you the freshest—sweetest—coolest tobacco for your pipe.

In Master Workman Tobacco all the natural moisture, on which the natural flavor of the leaf depends, is retained, because all the moisture and sweetness of the leaf is pressed into the plug and kept there by Nature's own package—the natural leaf wrapper.

Sliced or granulated tobacco must be inferior to Master Workman Plug, because any chopped-up tobacco must lose its moisture and flavor—become dry—burn fast and smoke hot. That's why all such chopped up tobaccos bite your tongue.

The House on the Marsh

A Celebrated Novel by Florence Warden

PART I.

DURING the whole drive back to Goldhurst it was old Mr. Rodie who talked to me, and not Laurence, who drove along, silent and grave, pulling my cloak affectionately up to my throat now and then, and watching me as I talked to his father, lest scarcely speaking himself at all. When we got to the gate of the Alders he jumped out carefully lifted me out, and telling his father to drive on home, as he should walk the rest of the way, he came inside the gate with me.

"Violet," he said, very gravely, "I am afraid I have been foolish in agreeing to my father's wishes, and I am more anxious about you than I can tell. The Alders is no place for you. I can see quite well now what I could not when I was blinded by my passion last night. You are so good and innocent that evil seems to have no power over you. But yet—and—and it is just that which makes you so sweet, and I don't want to spoil it, open your eyes, and all that."

He was playing nervously with my hand, holding it against his breast, and looking into my eyes so miserably, poor fellow!

"Look here, Violet!" said he suddenly, as if struck by a happy thought. "If say man, while I am away, tells you you are nice, and ever so much prettier than he is very fond of you—or Mr. Rayner, or my father, or any man—don't take any notice, and don't believe them."

But poor Laurence was more innocent than I. He thought I did not know what he meant. He was so jealous of Mr. Rayner and I could not persuade him how absurd it was.

I said, "Very well, Laurence," but he was not satisfied. He went on trying to justify himself—not to me—he wanted no justification in my eyes—but to himself.

"But the third week in November I shall be back in England, and before the month is out you must be my wife, my darling."

"Oh, Laurence, so soon!"

"So soon! Why, it is a century off! I shall be greybeaded if we wait another week. I am not sure where we shall stay, but tomorrow night I will bring you an address that you can write to. It is that of a friend of mine—I forget the number of the street but you shall have it, and I shall be sure to get your letters. Now, if anything happens to alarm you, or you are ill, or anything, you write at once, and I will return to Goldham without delay. And, my darling"—

We were interrupted by the sound of a carriage coming up the walk. It was Dr. Lowe's brougham returning from the house. I went to the carriage window and he told me that Haldee was suffering at present only from a bad, feverish cold, and that we must be careful with her, for it might turn into something worse, and that he should call again to see her in the morning.

He said that the child's chest was weak; that the damp place was the worst thing for her, and that he should like to see her parents to advise them to take her to some dryer climate as soon as she was well enough to be moved.

"Mind, she mustn't be moved yet," said he. "She is very well where she is—nice warm room, high out of the damp. But the lower part of the house strikes me like a vault."

Recognizes Reade

"Is that young Reade? Is that you, Laurence?" said the doctor, peering out of the carriage window into the deep shadows of the trees behind me.

Laurence came forward.

"Yes, Doctor Lowe, I drove back from Reconsborough with my father and this lady, after calling upon you, and I am saying good-by to her, as I am going abroad and shall not see her again until a few days before she becomes my wife," said he, in a low voice, but very proudly, with his hand on my shoulder.

"Wife, eh" incredulously.

"But it is a secret."

"Oh, ah, of course," knowingly. "So this is the Miss Christie I've heard so much about," and he deliberately put on his glasses and stared at me in the faint moonlight. "Well, she wouldn't have turned the heads of the men when I was young."

We both laughed at the old man's crudeness.

"I have no doubt heads were harder to turn then, Dr. Lowe," said Laurence, dryly.

"Well, take care some one else doesn't turn hers while you are away," said the doctor, glaring at him furiously, as he told the coachman to drive on, and threw up the window sharply.

This last bit struck poor Laurence as an evil omen, and when I told him I must go in now and that I should see him again on the morrow he flung his arms around me in such distress that I did not know what to say to comfort him.

"See what clever Dr. Lowe thinks of your Mr. Rayner, Violet," said he, looking anxiously into my eyes. "Now, listen, my darling. Don't trust him, don't trust anybody while I am away, and don't believe what anybody may tell you about me. What would you do if they showed you a certificate of my marriage to another woman?"

"Oh, Laurence, you are not going away to be married?"

"No, child, no! and if any one tells you so you will know it is a lie. And if you get no letters and they tell you I am dead"—

"Oh, Laurence, don't!"

Kissed Her Goodby

"Why, that will be a lie, too! I shall be alive and single all the next six weeks, and at the end of that time I will come back and marry you. And if you want me I shall come back before, my darling. Goodby, goodby!"

He kissed me again and again, then tore himself from my arms and dashed away without daring to even look at me again, and, tearfully and trembling, I turned to go back to the house.

But just as I was going to leave the shelter of the trees sub cross the gravel space to the portico I stopped, for I saw in the gloom a figure making its way toward the back of the house.

I was coming from the path among the trees which led to the stables. I strained my eyes, but there was a cloud passing before the moon and I could only see that it was a man, and that he was carrying what looked like a small trunk, and that it seemed heavy.

He had disappeared behind the back of the house by this time, and, as I was curious to know what would happen next, I waited, trembling, creeping in among the trees, and in a few minutes had the satisfaction of seeing him reappear, followed by Sarah. And, the clouds having passed over the face of the moon, I saw that it was, indeed, Tom Parkes, and then I would have given the world to know what he had brought her.

They disappeared up the stable path, and I took the opportunity to dart across the gravel space to the front door and ring as gently as I could. Jane came down in a few minutes, very sleepy, and let me in.

"Sarah's been asking where you were, Miss Christie, and, as I let the doctor in, I told her you'd come back with him. I guessed as you'd come back safe, miss, when the doctor said as how a young gentleman was with you," said Jane with an elaborate archness.

I was very tired, and the moment I laid my head on my pillow I fell soundly asleep, and did not wake up until the morning.

Haldee was already awake, and undoubtedly better.

"How did you sleep, darling?" said I, sitting on the bed and kissing her.

"Oh, beautifully, Miss Christie! I hardly ever woke up once, and when I did I watched the beautiful fire—could just see it when I laid with my head so. It is so nice and warm up here! I was mamma was up here, I should like to be up here always. I think I would have nice dreams up here, not like the ones I have downstairs.

I had all my meals by myself that day, except tea, which I had upstairs with Haldee; for Sarah said Mrs. Rayner was too unwell to leave the room. When we had finished tea I still sat upstairs by my pupil's bedside, and my high spirits at the thought of Laurence's expected visit infected her, and she laughed and chatted to me in a fashion very unusual with her.

At last I heard the front door bell ring, and my heart seemed to stand still with joyous anticipation. But no one came upstairs to fetch me, and after a few minutes' breathless waiting I ran downstairs, unable to bear the suspense any longer. I met Sarah in the hall.

"Who was that, Sarah?" said I, too much excited to think of a decent subterfuge.

"Only one of Gregson's boys asking for Mr. Rayner, miss.

Strange that Gregson's boys should come to the front door, I thought, but could not get upstairs again. It was half past six, and at half past seven I was to be at my "nest," if Laurence did not come before. I thought that hour would never end. It seemed to me to be getting very dark too. When the hands of the schoolroom clock pointed at twenty minutes past I got on my shawl and had opened the window to go out, when Sarah came in.

Checked by Sarah

"If you please, miss, would you mind helping me with the store list? Mrs. Rayner is too ill to do it and it has to be posted tomorrow morning."

"Oh, Sarah, won't it do in—in half an hour?" said I breathlessly.

"Mrs. Rayner will want me then, miss. It won't take you more than five minutes."

I followed her out of the room, suppressing my impatience as well as I could. But the task really did not seem to take long. In what appeared to be about a quarter of an hour I was free. I dashed into the garden, through the plantation, toward my "nest."

I had not looked at the clock again. Surely it was very dark for 7:30! Yet Laurence was not there, and as I stood wondering whether something was wrong I heard the church clock strike 8. What awful mistake had I made? Was he gone? Should I really never see him again? A bit of paper half hidden in the grass, not on my seat, but under it, caught my eyes. It was the leaf torn from a pocketbook. On it was scrawled in pencil in Laurence's handwriting:

"Good-by, my darling. Remember what I prophesied last night, and, if no other warning will serve you, take this one: I called at the Alders at 7 and was told by Sarah that you were tired out with watching by Haldee, and were asleep. I came here tonight and you are not here. I know it is a cruel hoax

Stately Minuet, the Dance of Kings, Once Ruled in Ball Rooms of the Great

There is not a single free moment in the dancing of the minuet; it is a product of the golden age of courtliness and deportment.—Sketch by Michelson.

By MARGARET HUBBARD AYER

THE minuet is the most ceremonious dance in existence. It is the dance of kings and courtiers, of great women and great men, who for various reasons could not, and would not, be anything but exquisitely dignified. It was invented by an obscure dancing master in Poitiers, some time in the early part of the seventeenth century, and the fashionable world of Paris, including the great dancing academy there, looked upon it with extreme condescension, and even with scorn.

But despite everything that the academy could say against it the minuet pleased the great lords and ladies of the time, and composers saw in the graceful and varying steps possibilities for new forms of music. Lully, the composer, wrote the first minuet dance, which we still hear occasionally, and Louis XIV. of France and Louis the Great danced it. Of course, from that day the minuet was made, and every one who was any one at all went at once and was taught the new dance, just as they are learning the glides and trots today.

France was at its zenith at that time. The king's armies were victorious everywhere in the field. It was the golden age of art and literature. Racine and Cornellis were writing their great tragedies. Moliere presented his own immortal comedies at the court theatre at Versailles.

But these great men, and all other artists and musicians, were governed by a code of rigid forms by which they must write, compose or paint. From the architect who built the palaces to the man who made the king's clothes every one was ruled by certain fixed laws of convention and etiquette from which they could not escape.

Romantic chivalry of the Middle Ages had disappeared and a formal code of etiquette had taken its place. Men and women considered manners of the utmost importance; they cultivated physical grace within certain very circumscribed limits, and the minuet gave them the chance to show off these graces to the very best advantage.

Every dance is typical of the age in which it is invented. The minuet is ceremonious, correct, courtly, splendid and formal, like the reign of Louis XIV.

Every motion is prescribed by custom, etiquette and convention. It is dignified and royal.

There is not a breath of freedom or a natural movement. It is laid down by custom and rule.

The minuet flourished as long as the kings did, and it was swept away with them in the French revolution.

Since the great revival of dancing the minuet has been performed considerably, especially at great entertainments or for charity. It is not a dance that inspires young people of today as the one-step does, and it will never be popular again in its old and complicated forms.

It took three months of hard study to learn the great minuet of the court, for it was a very slow dance, and required great sense of rhythm, perfection of balance and expert management on the part of the lady of a long court train. A special turn with a dignified and very circumspect kick at the end got the train into place.

The women wore full court costume, powdered wig, very tight stays and extremely high heels. Naturally, it was difficult to maintain their balance, and as every movement was watched and criticised you may be sure the belles of those days were careful not to give their rival beauties any reason to condemn their dancing.

In a book by the royal dancing master of the time, twenty-five pages are devoted alone to the first curtsy which opens the dance, for every little movement had indeed a meaning all its own in the days of Louis of France.

The gallant courtier, while leading the fair lady through the mazes of the dance, was expected to enchant her with the wittiest and cleverest talk. The dance, which is really a stately walk, interspersed with pretty groupings of the partners and deep curtsies, was calculated never to put any one out of breath as our rough modern dances do. You cannot think of the great king puffing around. He had to be considered in every way, and his dignity was the dignity of the nation, and had to be preserved.

Hunting a Husband

By VIRGINIA TERHUNE VAN DE WATER

Dr. Haynes Proposes to Beatrice and Admires Her Frankness When She Declines

IT was not until 4 o'clock that Dr. Haynes helped Beatrice into his car, which had stood before the door for the past hour. As is always the case in a departure after a sojourn of any length, a dozen things had been deferred until the last moment, and the process of servant-tipping, protestations of gratitude and affectionate demonstrations between Beatrice and her hostess—and, finally, the mystery of a lost bag which was found after ten minutes' search in the doctor's automobile—all tended to exhaust the man's store of good temper.

Accordingly, he sighed with relief as he drove his car out of the gate and away from the chorused farewells and friendly admonitions.

"Thank heaven, that's over!" he exclaimed fervently, as the car sped smoothly along the broad road encircling the lake. "I wonder what you women would do if you were going to Europe!"

The widow's nerves had been sorely tried by the bustle of departure. The tactless speech of her companion did not tend to soothe them.

"I am sorry," she replied somewhat stiffly, "that you have been put to so much trouble for me."

The doctor laughed with the irritating tolerance of a strong-willed man.

The Doctor Is Silent

"Don't talk foolishly," he admonished. "You know perfectly well what a pleasure it is for me to take you into the city without my telling you again."

"You did not appear overjoyed just now," said Beatrice plaintively.

The physician wisely refrained from further discussion of the point, and called attention to the faint tarnish of brown that was beginning to appear on the slopes of the distant hills.

"When Summer, gathering up her robes of glory,
And, gently sighing, steals my soul
away,"

he quoted, reflectively and softly.

"I thought you did not care for poetry!" exclaimed Beatrice, surprised.

"I didn't a few months ago," he answered. "I have altered my opinion of many things in that time."

He paused, then continued, as his companion made no reply: "Four months ago I considered you a selfish, vain woman."

"Upon my word!" exclaimed Beatrice with a gasp of astonishment. "You are frank, Dr. Haynes, even if you are not complimentary!"

"I said," continued the man imperturbably, "that my opinions on many things had changed since that time. They have. I have learned to know you better this Summer than I ever knew any other woman except my mother."

He paused while his light machine panted its way up a hill. Then, as it topped the crest, he went on in the same placid tone of voice.

"What I said a moment ago is a compliment in a way, for you have proved to me that I was wrong in all my early estimates of your character. I began by disliking you. I have ended by caring for you very deeply. I love you. I want you to marry me."

The very unexpectedness of the declaration silenced the woman for a minute. She had wondered often if the physician was not becoming fond of her. But she had not anticipated this—yet.

"I don't understand you, I fear," she faltered. "Do you really mean that you——"

"I Do Not Love You!"

"I mean that I love you," repeated the man. "And I ask you to marry me. Will you?"

"But," Beatrice stammered, completely at a loss as to how to reply. "You have given me no time to think, and I must have time."

"As a rule, if a woman cares for a man she knows it without taking time to think about it," answered the physician sententiously.

The plain, blunt speech affected Beatrice strangely. Affectations and insincerities seemed for the moment to slip away from her as things that were ignoble. For perhaps the first time in her life she told the straight truth to a man who made love to her.

"Dr. Haynes," she said, "I do not love you; therefore I cannot marry you. I would not tell you this so plainly if I did not believe that you want an honest, straightforward answer. I value your friendship greatly, and it would make me very unhappy to feel that I had lost it because of what I am telling you. I owe you more than it will ever be possible for me to express in the way of gratitude—but I cannot marry you."

She paused and looked at the face of the man seated beside her. He was pale, but his countenance was otherwise expressionless. A sudden thrill of pity ran through her, and she laid her hand gently on his arm.

"Dear Dr. Haynes," she said softly, "please be my friend still! A woman has in this world so few men friends whom she can trust. And I have gotten into the habit of depending upon your friendship. It has meant much to me. I am sorry to have to hurt you as I have done. Don't be angry with me because I told you the truth."

Must Be Her Friend

The physician drew in his breath sharply, and tried to smile. Then he looked frankly into the eyes raised to his.

"Bless your dear heart!" he said, with a poor attempt at cheerfulness, "you couldn't keep me from being your friend if you tried to. Forgive me for making an old fool of myself. We will just try to forget that this conversation ever took place. And I am your friend now and always. I thank you for answering my question as plainly and as fairly as I asked it. All women would not have been so sincere and free from foolish vanity and coquetry. I knew I could expect from you an honest, true statement of a fact."

If Beatrice Minor thought at that moment of the manner in which she had replied to proposals from other suitors, she made no sign.

Business Editor of the AMERICAN.

Here are extracts from an article that appears along with elaborate charts in Hearst's Magazine for April.

In the future you are to have a fairer deal when you invest your money in stocks or bonds of the country's great business organizations.

The New York Stock Exchange now rule forbids "take" and "put" transactions in which the same party or pool both buys and sells a stock at rising or falling prices, to deceive the public into believing that the deals present bona-fide purchases and sales. These "wash sales" involve no change in the ownership of the shares handled backward and forward. In the future, no broker can touch such business on pain of suspension.

But such a rule cannot, of course, reach trading in securities not listed on the stock exchange. It does not apply, for example, to the wild trading going on in the Standard Oil stocks, since these are not listed on the stock exchange but are dealt in either on the curb market or over the counter.

"Fooling the Public."

Many of America's great fortunes have been made in large part from manipulating the stock market—that is, from clever and often unscrupulous schemes for sending up and selling down prices of securities to unjustified levels to enable the riggers to scoop in millions of dollars. In the "good old days," which were really very bad old days, it was considered part of the game of speculation to fool the public at every turn, grossly to deceive them as to values of stocks, to entice them into the market and then to "fleece" them, to use the common and expressive phrase.

Dividend checks used to be the least important source of income for the great manipulators of stocks. A ten-point profit in a speculative movement was worth two dividends of five per cent. each and the ten points could be made perhaps in a week, whereas it took two companies a whole year to make the dividends.

This evil of abusing the machinery of the stock exchange, this highwayman's game of bamboozling the public through unscrupulous manipulations, has not been played by the nation's greatest stalwarts quite so frequently or so flagrantly within recent years, although the record even for the last year or two does not inspire pride.

Scandalous Oil Profits.

The profits made by the Rockefeller interests and their associates in stocks covering the various branches of oil industry have been scandalous, scandalous because the insiders have had a complete monopoly of information concerning the profits of the companies and could therefore play with loaded dice. The methods of publicity has been disgracefully flouted.

Repeated efforts by stockholders to get facts and figures of their companies were futile, the Rockefeller people naively and cynically saying that no information was available—for the helpless public. Light of it, however, was open to the inner circle, to the No. 1 and No. 2 crowd, and there is no reason to believe they have not acted upon it with results that have built bank accounts overflowing.

Practically all the thirty-four varieties of Standard Oil issues have played their tricks on investors since the farcical "dissolution" of the parent company.

"Inside Reports."

Standard Oil of Kentucky shot up 'Bout to $400 a share in one day. Then it fell back as much. In February last it tumbled $150 a share with embarrassing suddenness. In both occasions there were reports—from "inside sources" of course —of prospective financing that did not materialize.

Continental Oil stock was only $100 bid at the end of 1911, yet recently it rose above $2,000 a share. South Pennsylvania Oil went from $270 to well above $1,000; Standard Oil of Kansas from $85 bid to $630—and then back below $500. Standard Oil of Indiana went from $200 to $700 in about twelve months.

Standard Oil of Indiana went from $2 600 to $6,750. The company paid a dividend of 2,900 per cent.

What a glorious opportunity for Rockefeller friends in the inner councils to accumulate easy fortunes!

Waters-Pierce Oil shares jumped from $250 to $2,525, then receded to $1,500—another chance to fleece outsiders both "coming and going."

MAYOR SPEAKS AT LAWRENCE BENEFIT

LAWRENCE, April 7.—Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston was the principal speaker at a benefit given in the Opera House here for O'Donovan Rossa, the Irish poet and patriot. About 1,500 persons attended, including Mayors of several Essex county cities and a large number of the Catholic clergy. A considerable sum of money was raised.

STEAMER RUNS INTO NEW 'SARGASSO SEA'

A "new Sargasso Sea" of drifting sea weed was the phenomena that the Norwegian steamer Aurora, in port today from San Domingo, encountered on her voyage to Boston. The Aurora ran into the seaweed on April 1 and was in it until the afternoon of April 3. The weed was so thick that in places the Aurora was only able to make a knot an hour.

INSTAL M'CARTHY AS ELKS' LEADER

Timothy E. McCarthy was installed ruler of the Boston Lodge of Elks by William H. Parker, acting district deputy, and suite. Other officers installed were: Esteemed leading knight, Matthew T. Birmingham; esteemed loyal knight, Edward Johnson; esteemed lecturing knight, Charles J. Morgan, Jr.; secretary, Patrick F. McCarron; treasurer, Alfred E. Wellington; tiler, Oscar Shaffer.

NEW ROXBURY RECTOR.

The Rev. Chauncey H. Blodgett, formerly of Fall River, has assumed the pastorate of St. James' Episcopal Church, Roxbury. The office of institution was read by Archdeacon Samuel G. Babcock.

TODAYS STOCK MARKET

There was no incentive to buy stocks when the week opened, as uncertainty hedged about everything bearing upon values. London suffered from gloom because a petty State like Montenegro had showed a defiant spirit towards the Powers when Balkan States were asked to make peace with Turkey. In Europe, moreover, there is some fear as to the effect of what President Wilson is to say next. In this country, with Congress assembling to revise the tariff and the Supreme Court again upon the bench, few traders wanted to take the long side.

It did not require much selling pressure to send prices down. So they declined.

In the local market Osceola opened two points lower and sank another within a few minutes. At the end of an hour Calumet & Hecla was off five. As a rule declines by coppers were small.

In the industrial list New Haven receded more than a point soon after the opening. Trading was dull.

At the end of the first hour in New York Reading had recovered earlier losses and was unchanged, while Amalgamated, American Can, American Smelting, Steel and Union Pacific were fractionally lower.

Prices Lower in New York.

Stocks were selling lower than at the New York market opened. This was due to uncertainty as to the tariff situation on the day when Congress reconvened and several lesser causes. One of the latter was the heaviness of stocks in London where speculators were depressed by the attitude of the Balkan allies on the peace question. There was also a disposition to hesitate on this side because the United States Supreme Court resumed sittings today and a decision on the Minnesota Rate Case might be handed down.

Canadian Pacific and American Beet Sugar were the weakest issues in New York when trading began. Canadian Pacific had suffered in London from heavy realizing sales. It dropped two points to 226½. American Beet Sugar sagged 3¼ to 33¾.

The big American market followed the lead of London, where American stocks had reacted after a rise. Londoners wanted to learn what President Wilson will say to Congress tomorrow. There was an absence of demand for stocks in New York at the start and on the other hand, the supply was considerable. This was sufficient to cause price recessions.

Among the early losers were Amalgamated ¼; American Can 1¼; Anaconda ⅜; B. & O. ½; California Petroleum ¼; St. Paul ¼; Steel Common ¼; U. S. Rubber Common ⅝; Southern Pacific ½; Union Pacific 1; Reading ⅝; Republic Steel ⅜; Pennsylvania ¼; Northern Pacific ½; Lehigh Valley ⅝, and Norfolk & Western ¼. Partial recoveries were subsequently made by some of the stocks. The Curb was dull and easy.

N. Y. Losing Flood Money.

The demand for money to repair flood damage in the Middle West is now a serious factor with Eastern bankers. More than $1,500,000 was shipped from New York to Cincinnati last week and a large movement this week, or soon, is expected. Besides transfers through the sub-treasury, Western banks will draw down their New York balances. This is having some effect on the money market. In New York it was said today.

There was, and is at present, a heavy demand for facilities from automobile sources. Merchants in most cases have been unwilling to pay the high rates asked for the discounting of commercial paper, and have gone directly to their own banks, where they have been able to obtain funds on an easier basis.

Business was not slowed down as much as has been expected, and the mercantile demand has made it necessary for interior banks to materially reduce their New York balances, to the inconvenience of the local market.

National banks are expanding their note issues. The supply afloat today is the greatest in the history of the country.

The latest statement of the Comptroller of the Currency shows that $726,000,000 was outstanding on April 1. The total at this season in a year of normal business is $600,000,000. The figures for 1912 were: April 1, 1912, $688,000,000; July 1, 1912, $697,000,000; Oct. 1, 1912, $707,000,000; Jan. 1, 1913, $724,000,000.

Moreover, merchants' paper bought by country banks has been forwarded in volume to New York for rediscount—an unexpected development.

Money Easier in Berlin.

The Berlin financial correspondent of Hearst newspapers cables from the German capital that the monetary situation there improved faster than was hoped for. The outlook is better than for many weeks. "The Reichsbank's final return for March," he says, "was much more favorable than had been predicted, and had a reassuring effect. It is proved that Berlin was really not in such a bad plight as foreign observers represented.

"Provinces have been sending in large supplies of money since the first of April, causing bankers to bid actively for bills, rates rapidly relaxing in consequence.

"The London situation is also regarded as highly encouraging. As Germany has ceased bidding for new gold in the open market, it is believed the Bank of England will procure most of the yellow metal arriving this month.

"Hence, the English bank should soon be in a position to reduce the official discount rate, which has stood at 5 per cent. since last October.

"Such action would quickly be duplicated here."

London Copper Quotations.

The London Copper warrants market opened easy with spot off 1s. 3d. and futures unchanged.

In March the Old Dominion output amounted to 2,853,000 pounds of blister copper, compared with 2,381,000 in the previous month.

The Tennessee Copper Company total receipts in 1912 were $1,300,875, compared with $577,920 in 1911. Last year the profit was $1,065,875 compared with $407,047 in the previous one.

It is estimated that refined copper production by the Guggenheim Hoyle and subsidiary companies in March totaled 9,872,504 pounds, compared with 8,820,736 in February.

Financial News in Brief.

Because of Middle West floods it is estimated that the demand for new rails by roads in that territory will amount to 60,000 tons and a large part of the supply is needed at once. Big orders for structural steel is reaching mills. It is to replace buildings which were detroyed by the inundation. Hundred of miles of wire fencing were washed away. Great quantities of oil and gas line pipe must be replaced.

The Bank of England reported last week a reserve nearly $4,500,000 above that of last year, when the bank rate was 2½ per cent. It is now 5. The bank got $6,303,000 in gold last week, and now there is expectation that the rate will soon be lowered.

The pension system of the Pennsylvania road and branches has been in force just thirteen years, and during that period 7,152 men have received $8,386,789. There are now 3,807 on the pension list.

There was more demand for bonds last week and they ranged higher.

Freeland Jewett, president of the Eastern Tule Company sailed for Europe on the Cretic on Saturday and will spend several months abroad.

President Stevens of the Chesapeake & Ohio reports that physical loss to the road through floods will not exceed $250,000.

The New York sub-treasury gained $569,000 from banks on Saturday and has gained $1,283,000 since Friday.

Billion Dollars for French Navy.

PARIS—The naval program of M. Pierre Baudin, Minister of Marine, calls for an expense of one billion dollars on the French navy. The Matin announced today that M. Baudin will shortly request Parliament to authorize the expenditure of one billion dollars on naval equipment and battleship construction, this sum to be raised in twelve separate instalments. M. Baudin favors the construction of a special fleet of scout cruisers, each ship capable of making twenty-seven knots an hour and each to cost at least $3,500,000.

Sentenced Million Culprits.

LONDON—Robert H. Bullock-Marsham, a magistrate at the Bow street police station for thirty-three years, died today at the age of eighty. He was one of the most famous police magistrates in England and during the tenure passed judgment upon upwards of a million culprits.

Zeppelin Secrets Printed.

PARIS—Minute descriptions of the Zeppelin cruiser Z4, which landed at Luneville and was captured by the French, are already appearing in the French newspapers. These describe the interior of the airship in detail.

A dividend of ONE PER CENT. on the COMMON STOCK of this company for the quarter ending March 31, 1913, will be paid April 30, 1913, to stockholders of record at the close of business on March 31, 1913. T. W. SIMMON, Treasurer.

TO LABOR & FINANCE

The following, compiled for the Firemen-Railroad Arbitration Board, is submitted for the consideration of organized labor and the investors in American securities:

The American business, financial and labor world is unsettled.

Unrest, uncertainty, dread, demoralization, are everywhere.

There are two main causes:

1. Labor with its present income cannot meet its present cost of living. If labor does not receive an increase in wage, it will be compelled to abandon its present standard of living and to adopt one costing a billion dollars less yearly.

If this were practicable—it is not, because labor will revolt first—the consumption of labor's product would contract—business would enter into a cycle back-tracking from prosperity to "hard times."

Labor must have its increased wage—will have it.

The employers of labor—the Nation's industries—cannot grant labor's necessary wage increase unless

(a) They are allowed to mark up the price of their product—the necessities of the people—; or unless

(b) They voluntarily cut capital's returns—dividends.

Marking up the price of the Nation's product will not solve the present-day problem. Increased cost of the people's necessities will bring labor back, after each mark-up in price, for another increase.

Dividends must be cut to meet labor's demand. It is inevitable that dividends will be cut.

It is the shadow of this coming cut that is one of the main causes of the present demoralization of the market for labor and labor's products—the necessities of the people; and for capital and capital's products—Stocks and bonds.

2. There are 60 billions of American securities, calling for an annual dividend and interest return of three billion dollars. Ten billions of these 60 billions of stocks and bonds represent original—real—capital invested. Fifteen billions represent the timate increase.

The remaining 35 billions—nearly 60%—are fictitious—counterfeit—inasmuch as they do not represent any real capital or legitimate increase. Therefore, one billion and three-quarters, or close on 60% of the present annual dividend and interest return, represents an unwarranted inflation.

On the other hand, there are 10 billion dollars of labor's savings, calling for an annual interest return of 4%. (5 billions are in savings banks and 5 billions in other forms.) But while the 60% inflation of capital and capital's return has been taking place, the value of labor's 10 billion dollars of savings, and their 4% return, have remained stationary; not only that, but as the purchasing power of the annual return upon labor's 10 billions has been cut in two, this 4% return is practically cut in two.

THEREFORE, THERE CAN BE NO JUST COMPLAINT AGAINST A 30% CUT IN DIVIDENDS TO MEET LABOR'S ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY DEMANDS.

There have been two instruments used in the illegitimate inflation of stocks and bonds: "Money Trust" and Stock Exchange. But for "Money Trust" and Stock Exchange there could not have been illegitimate inflation.

A reform wave is sweeping the Nation. It has turned the Government over to new lawmakers and administrators, pledged to a reform of present evils.

It is the shadow of this coming "money trust—Stock Exchange" reform that is the other main cause of present demoralization.

There are other contributing causes. "Increased standard of living"; "tariff"—"gold over-production"; "European wars," etc., but they are of minor consequence.

It is in the air that

Labor will secured its increased wage—over a billion dollars annually.

Dividends will be cut—over a billion dollars annually.

Laws will be enacted which will make it impossible for the 60 billions of American securities to be so manipulated that the increase in wage can be offset by an increase in price of living's necessities.

The people feel it, and it is this feeling that has made present demoralization Nation-wide.

Holders of American securities owe it to themselves to face coming conditions and to govern themselves accordingly without regard to the fallacies of the surface skaters of the financial world.

The immediate result of under-way reforms will be: The settling, and settling right, of labor;

A drop in the price of all stocks which are dependent on illegitimate monopoly for the payment of their present abnormally high dividends;

A rise in the price of all stocks which earn their present high dividends without resort to illegitimate monopoly.

There are scores of both kinds. I will not name any of either, for I have no intention of laying my argument open to the charge of its being made to influence the price of securities. Also, as I am not in the business of buying and selling stocks, I am giving no special advice to anyone.

I will say, however, that scores of stocks will drop heavily and scores of other stocks will rise rapidly, and I point all investors to the necessity of seeking disinterested advice of honest experts in finance, so that such investors, before it is too late, may exchange their holdings from one kind into the other.

The ultimate outcome of the present situation will be twofold:

The lowering of the rate of return on invested capital, and, paradoxical as it may appear at first glance, the consequent raising of the market price of the body of American securities.

BOSTON, APRIL 7, 1913.

Investors may as well squarely meet the situation today as attempt to postpone further its settlement.

Labor must have its increase. Its increase cannot come from any source other than dividends or interest now paid upon the Nation's securities.

By paying labor its necessary additional wage, investors will be reimbursed:

1. The vital element now absent from American securities—confidence—will return with the right settlement of the labor problem.

2. The purchasing ability of the vast majority of the American people, labor, will be increased by a billion dollars, received in increased wages. This will bring unprecedented business prosperity, which in turn will increase the earnings of the industries upon which legitimate securities are based, and will increase the price and dividends of these securities.

Investors may well ponder the following:

A certain great railroad a short time ago charged the public rates which enabled it to pay dividends of 5%, or $5 per share, upon its hundreds of millions of stock. Its stockholders were satisfied. Its stock sold at $100 per share. Then, by a Money Trust-Stock Exchange trick, its controllers manipulated the stock's price to $200 per share, and, using this abnormally high price as an excuse, raised its rates and earnings sufficiently to enable it to pay 5% upon its market price, or $10 per share. This while "making" for the man who invented and executed the trick a fortune of over 200 million dollars, added to the cost of the people's living, for the extra $5 per share came from them in the form of mark-up in the price of the necessities.

Thus was capital's return doubled while labor's deposited savings in savings banks, the foundation of the "Money Trust-Stock Exchange" trick, have remained at 4 percent.

It would be a libel on the intelligence of mightily organised labor to suppose that it will peaceably listen to this railroad's plea that it cannot cut dividends back to 5% on its real capital to enable it to give to labor its necessary increase in wage.

A certain great industry a few years ago paid no dividends upon its hundreds of millions of common stock, all of which was water. As its stockholders had no right to dividends they were satisfied in receiving none. Today this industry adds to the price of its product, a foundation necessity of the people, $25,000,000 each year for the payment of 5 percent on its hundreds of millions of water capital. At its selling price today this stock gives an annual return of 9 percent to purchasers, while paying at the same time, for the use of labor's deposited-in-savings-banks capital, indirectly borrowed from savings banks for use in its business, but 4 percent.

It would be worse than libel on the intelligence of the American people to suppose that they will peacefully stand by and allow this, while labor, refused its necessary increase in wage, starves or riots and dynamites the nation from its present demoralization to something worse.

It is inevitable that this industry must stop its dividends and must leave with the people, either in the form of increased wage to labor or in the form of reduction in the price of its product, the 25 million dollars it now takes from them.

Neither this railroad nor industry is an exception to the general run of their class. There are scores similarly inflated in capital and in dividend returns.

Investors should ponder this, too:

The Congressional Money Trust-Stock Exchange Investigating Committee demanded that the Controller of Currency furnish Congress, and through Congress the American people, with a list of all stock held by banks and trust companies as collateral for loans to the officers and directors of such institutions. The demand was refused. If it had been granted, there would have been exposed to the people an unbelievable condition; billions of deposits supposed to be intact in cash or good notes, stocks or bonds, withdrawn by officers and directors and replaced by billions of inflated stocks and bonds unmarketable at 50 cents on the dollar of what had been loaned upon them.

The Investigating Committee introduced a bill in Congress to compel the giving of the asked-for information, and although it passed the House it was killed in the Senate.

Investors should weigh the probability of the present reform administration insisting upon a law which will expose the gigantic corporation and trust crookedness now existing and weigh the chance of investors having, after such exposure, opportunity to make the exchange from bad to good securities.

My investigation into present conditions leads me to the opinion that investors will not have over three months, dating from today, in which to make the exchange from bad stocks and bonds into good ones. If they wait too long and all start to make the exchange at once, financialdom will surely be confronted with a disastrous condition.

A final word to Labor, Capital and the Government:

Labor must insist upon its necessary increase in wage, and while insisting it must allow no argument to deflect its vision from the only source from which its increased wage can come—cut in present abnormally high dividends and interest.

Capital must concede to labor its necessary increase by cutting its present dividends and interest, or else present unrest and demoralization will continue until it has cut the market worth of securities many times the amount labor must have.

The Government must see to it that, in granting labor's demands, the nation's industries do not attempt to collect the increased wage from all the people through Higher-Cost Living.

By J. C. KERRISON.

At a conference with the council of the S. A. E. held in New York at which President William K. Metzger and Gen. eral Manager Samuel A. Miles, of the National Association were present, a plan of action was sketched out by which the S. A. E. is given full authority to arrange for whatever scientific research the needs of the investigation may disclose.

Special opportunity will be given inventors and others who are interested in the development of new fuels as substitutes for gasoline.

Coal tar, peat and even vegetable refuse are possible sources of hydrocarbon compounds that may be used as fuel that are at present under investigation by various authorities. Those interested in substitute products, as well as in new processes for increasing the yield of gasoline and similar products from petroleum itself will be the first to receive the attention of the investigators.

In a similar way, inventors of carburetors and other devices calculated to adapt the ordinary automobile engine to the use of kerosene, distillate and similar low-grade fuels, will be given opportunity to demonstrate what merits lie in the satisfaction of the investigators.

"There will not be enough Velie cars to go around this season," said Manager Bradford of the Boston branch. "All ready some of the models are practically sold out. For instance, we will have only ten more of the 30 horsepower to sell in Boston this season, and the four-passenger touring cars are all gone from us.

"Early in the season we predicted that this would be a record Velie year, and our predictions are coming true. Ever since to April 1 have more than doubled over last year, and the business in sight is way beyond our most sanguine expectations. Of course, there is a reason for this tremendous popularity, and that is the genuine worth of the Velie product and the many satisfied Velie customers throughout the country."

New Monte Carlo to Be Established On Mexican Border

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 7.—Concessions have been obtained from the Mexican government for the establishing of a race track, monster hotel and gambling resort at Tia Juana, just across the line, under from the United States, according to a statement made here by Sid Hester, a promoter.

Associated with Hester in the venture are George Weatherbee, Edward H. Watson, James Bradley and Richard Canfield, who formerly ran a high toned gambling resort in New York.

The persons interested here have formed an association known as the "Jockey Club of America and Europe," and in their intention to spend about $3,000,000 on the enterprise.

According to a statement made by Hester, president Diuerta granted the concession in order to aid the Mexican government financially.

It is stated that arrangements will be made with promoters of prize fight fame to pull off a fight between Jack Johnson and some white hope on July 4 of this year.

A General Strike Should Be the LAST Resort of Our Young Friends, the Telephone Operators

And Their FIRST Step, in the Effort for Better Working Conditions and Better Wages, Should Be to ARBITRATE Their Differences with the Telephone Company Management. A Million and a Half of People Want to Know What General Sherwin and His Associates Will Say About Arbitrating. THIS Controversy MUST Be Settled Without a Strike!

It may be decided today, while a million and a half of people vitally interested, stand powerless for the time, whether a strike of the operators shall TIE UP THE TELEPHONE SERVICE OF THIS COMMUNITY.

Just what the situation is, in the differences which have arisen between the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company and its twenty-two hundred young women operators, it is difficult to make out.

There are two versions.

We KNOW that the new and young president of the telephone company, Mr. Philip L. Spalding, met in conference, four days ago, with the president of the operators' union, Miss Molloy; that Miss Molloy was attended by the OTHER members of a committee of nine, and that the conference occupied the BETTER PART OF FOUR HOURS.

Thus far, both sides of the controversy, the company's president and the company's employes, are in agreement as to the facts regarding that conference.

It was said SUBSEQUENTLY, on behalf of President Spalding, that he had promised to take the "requests for changes" UNDER SERIOUS ADVISEMENT; and that, as fast as conditions warranted, every effort would be made to see if there could be FURTHER IMPROVEMENT IN WAGES AND HOURS.

And it was promptly said FOR THE OPERATORS, when they read the SPALDING VERSION of what had been said to them at the conference, that none of them had HEARD THESE WORDS.

The telephone girls say President Spalding declined to give them ANY answer.

The telephone girls say President Spalding told them it was impossible to give them an answer AT THAT TIME, and said he didn't know whether he would be ABLE TO GIVE THEM AN ANSWER IN TWO YEARS.

And the girls say also that the president of the telephone company gave them to understand that it would be useless for them to call again AS A COMMITTEE, but that he would be pleased to see his employes at any time as INDIVIDUALS.

IF President Spalding was properly understood and correctly quoted, in this last connection, it would APPEAR to be the position of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company that ORGANIZATIONS of its employes are NOT TO BE RECOGNIZED at headquarters; and IF this is the attitude of President Spalding and his Board of Directors, the AMERICAN desires to suggest to them that it is the attitude of 1880, and COMPLETELY OUT OF TOUCH WITH THE SPIRIT OF 1913.

This newspaper, in the friendliest manner, made the same suggestion one year ago, under similar circumstances, to another great public service corporation of this town. There was a temporary triumph, at the board table of THAT corporation, of the SPIRIT OF 1880.

And, IN CONSEQUENCE, the stockholders of the Boston Elevated Railway Company, the employes of that company, and the GREAT PUBLIC of GREATER BOSTON, suffered—and are still paying for—the carmen's strike of 1912.

Now, as then, the employes of a great public service corporation, seeking better conditions and better wages, have banded together in an ORGANIZATION—quite as the capitalists who employ them are organized—and the corporation which employs them takes the ground, apparently, that it WILL NOT recognize this organization.

We advise our young friends, the telephone operators, NOT TO BE TOO HASTY about calling a great strike which would at once PARALYZE THE COMMERCE AND THE INDUSTRY OF A GREAT SECTION OF NEW ENGLAND, inconvenience all their friends and neighbors and fellow-citizens, and undoubtedly ENDANGER LIFE AND PROPERTY.

Our young friends will win their every JUST demand, so long as they have the powerful support of public opinion; for, as we have just said to the officials of the company, we say to the operators: This IS 1913.

What the great public of Greater Boston MUST have, in order properly to understand this controversy and to form a fair and just opinion as to the merits of it, is THE TRUTH.

THE PUBLIC DEMANDS THE FACTS!

And the best way to get these facts to the public is by means of an OPEN HEARING BEFORE THE STATE BOARD OF CONCILIATION AND ARBITRATION.

The Mayor of Boston, acting under the law, and with his characteristic promptness, has notified the State Board that a strike is seriously threatened. Proceeding under the same law, the State Board will now investigate the CAUSE of the controversy, ascertain which party is mainly responsible or blameworthy, and publish a report finding the cause and assigning the blame.

It was known yesterday that at 10:30 o'clock today the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration would begin its "telephone" inquiry at the State House, and that the representatives of the operators' union had ACCEPTED AN INVITATION TO BE PRESENT.

Sincerely anxious that its friends of the telephone switchboards may win their every JUST demand—anxious, too, that the stockholders of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company may have that square deal which belongs to EVERY AMERICAN—but INFINITELY MORE CONCERNED ABOUT THE HEALTH AND THE HAPPINESS, THE PEACE AND THE INDUSTRY OF NEW ENGLAND, the AMERICAN hopes that President Spalding and his directors may also find THEIR way to the State House today, that employers and employed may REASON WITH ONE ANOTHER, and that the telephone "strike" may BEGIN AND END where the Elevated strike ENDED, in the friendly feeling that goes with CONCILIATION AND ARBITRATION.

We have no doubt that one of the big men of the telephone organization, one of its most powerful men, at a time like the present, is General Thomas Sherwin, chairman of the Board of Directors. We know that General Sherwin is a Civil War veteran who was conspicuous for his bravery at Gettysburg.

And only recently we have been reminded again, by the floods in Ohio, that American telephone operators are a RACE OF HEROINES. "In that army in the field were thousands of women, most of them young girls, and in the dark hours, when fighting was heaviest and death rode on every ripple of the yellow flood, they stood

How Men Poison Each Other

This picture is NOT an exaggeration. One ignorant and criminally careless man can scatter millions of disease germs in a day. The public should protect itself against poison by preventing disease-spreading coughing, spitting and sneezing in public places. (SEE EDITORIAL.)

Allies' Victories in Balkans Demonstrate Slavs' Progress.

World at Large Witnessing the Maturity of a Race Which Began Its Progress 5,006 Years Ago and Which Napoleon Predicted Would One Day Rule All Europe—The Aryan Race All Over World at Last Working in Unity After Years of Internal Strife.

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

It is a tremendously interesting thought that we today are witnessing the birth of a new nation, composed of a race of mankind which has not hitherto played a masterful part in history, except in limited areas, and for relatively brief intervals of time, and that this new nation is likely to change the entire political aspect of Europe. The capture of Adrianople makes the establishment of this new power a certainty.

If it be true that every branch of the human family has, in turn, its opportunity and its period of ascendancy, then it may be said that, at last, the great Slavic race is coming into its own.

Napoleon's Prediction of Europe Being All Cossacks Is Recalled

The imagination may well take fire at the suggestion now offered to it of a beginning of the realization of the prediction of Napoleon that Europe would eventually become "all Republican or all Cossacks." By Cossacks he meant Russians, who include about 70 per cent. of the Slavic race, whose total numbers in Europe were estimated in 1910 by Professor Niederle at 157,000,000 souls.

But it has not been Russia which started the actual revolution, but the comparatively insignificant branches of the Slavic race inhabiting the Balkan peninsula. According to the same authority above quoted, the Bulgarians, who, by their suddenly manifested energy, have taken the lead in the forward march of their race, number about 5,000,000; the Servians, together with their close relatives, the Croatians, in Austria-Hungary, about 9,000,000; the Poles about 19,000,000 (scattered through Russia, Austria and Germany, with 1,500,000 in the United States), and the Bohemian-Slavacs, in Germany and Austria-Hungary, about 9,000,000.

Slavic Race in Russia Already Numbers at Least 100,000,000

This, after subtracting the relatively innumerous branches of the Slavs living at various points in Europe, leaves about 110,000,000 representatives of the race in Russia.

It is a remarkable phenomenon that the Slavic people who have taken an active part in the present revolutionizing war include only the Bulgarians, the Servians and the Montenegrins dwelling within the limits of the Balkan peninsula and numbering altogether about 5,000,000, or less than 6 per cent. of the Slavic race.

The reason why they have acted alone is evident from the fact that they only, on account of their residence within the limits of old Turkey in Europe, have felt the maddening effects of Turkish rule. That they alone, without any active assistance from their relatives elsewhere, though gallantly and powerfully aided by the Greeks, should have effected what all Europe had for centuries failed to effect—the driving back of the Mohammedan power into Asia—is one of the marvels of history, and still more astonishing is the fact that nobody seems to have suspected, six months ago, that such a thing would, or could, be done.

This sudden looming up of the Slavs is the culmination of a great movement of peoples which began nearly 5,000 years ago.

Then vast hordes of the white Aryan races swept in successive waves over Europe. First came the Celts. On their heels pressed the Teutons, who pushed their predecessors westward toward the Atlantic. After the Teutons came the Slavs, and, forcing the Teutons farther westward, caused the latter practically to annihilate the Celts as a compact body, leaving only remnants, represented today by the Irish, the Welsh, the people of Brittany and the highland Scots.

But the hold of the Teutons was so firm that the Slavs were held back in eastern Europe, especially in Russia, and were prevented from acquiring the advantages that were seized by those who had preceded them. Thus, as a historian has said, the Celts were unfortunate in that they came too early, and were unable thoroughly to establish themselves before they were pushed out by the Teutons, while, on the other hand, the Slavs were unfortunate in coming too late, for they found the land occupied by a powerful race with which they could not contend.

Then the Slavs built up Russia, and for a time Poland, while many of them turned southward into the Balkan peninsula. But before they could there establish an enduring state the Turks descended upon them and threatened for a time to overwhelm Aryan civilization in Europe with a Mongolian, or Turanian, flood.

Slavs Now Maintain Racial Unity After Years of Strife

But in spite of an unfortunate situation, and of disadvantages of many kinds, the Slavs have managed to maintain racial unity, although splitting up into many States, and at times waging war upon each other, and now at last, inspired by the modern spirit of universal civilization and intellectual advance, they appear to have achieved a unity of purpose which, if mutual jealousies can be suppressed, will undoubtedly result in the formation of a nation, or an empire, that will be one of the most influential in the world.

In view of the great enlightenment now prevailing in Bulgaria and Servia, and of the remarkable readiness which their people show to adopt modern ideas, it may be that Napoleon's prediction will be fulfilled in a way not contemplated by him, and that a large part of Europe will become BOTH Cossack and Republican.

If Massachusetts Food-Products Are Going to Be Labelled, the People Want Labels That Tell the Truth

A bill to stop the false labelling of receptacles containing articles of food has been HALTED, in the Massachusetts Senate, on its way THROUGH the Legislature and INTO the statutes. The Senate MAY dispose of this bill on Wednesday. Our readers are advised to WATCH AND SEE.

One MIGHT suppose, after all that has been happening of late to POLITICAL TRICKSTERS and to FOOD FAKERS, that there would be none to stand in the Senate of Massachusetts and throw himself in the way of the passage of this bill.

Please to consider the TITLE of this measure:

"A BILL RELATIVE TO THE FALSE STAMPING AND LABELLING OF RECEPTACLES CONTAINING ARTICLES OF FOOD."

This bill HITS somebody. It hits the MASSACHUSETTS man—the FEDERAL laws take good care of the faker in interstate commerce— who FALSELY labels his product.

And this bill is OFFENSIVE to somebody; offensive to the same class of food-adulterators.

The popular branch of the Legislature passed this measure to be engrossed. In the House an attempt to write the word "knowingly" into the bill was killed, as it ought to have been killed. Then the bill went to the Senate.

CYNICS call the Senate the "graveyard of good legislation." ONCE, the description may have fitted. WE think the Senate has been IMPROVING.

The bill was passed to be engrossed in the Senate and then it was moved, by somebody, to RECONSIDER this good vote. The vote WAS reconsidered.

So, on Wednesday of the present week the Senate is AGAIN to consider the question of PASSING this Pure Food measure TO BE ENGROSSED.

We KNOW that some of the fakirs who are touched on the pocket nerve by this bill are watching it like hawks at the State House. We SUPPOSE the usual arguments have been attempted. We WARN the opponents of the measure that in good time the people of Massachusetts will have it out with them.

The AMERICAN is informed that the floor leader against the HONEST LABEL measure is Senator Walter McLane of Fall River. We had supposed that McLane had retired from business.

McLane is the statesman who WAS Chairman of the Committee on Liquor Laws. His is the committee which had all the matters before it TAKEN AWAY, and turned over to another committee on the complaint of anti-saloon folk. THAT incident barely missed opening up a State-wide scandal.

We advise Senator McLane to KEEP AWAY FROM THE STOVE. We advise his associates to PASS THE HONEST LABEL BILL.

And we advise everybody else to WATCH OUT FOR THE SENATE ROLL CALL, Wednesday afternoon, on "a bill relative to the false stamping and labelling of receptacles containing articles of food."

If a Man Threw MUD in Your Face You'd Fight

When He Coughs or Sneezes Deadly Disease Germs, WORSE Than Mud, in Your Face, You Say, "Poor Fellow, What a Cold He Has"

Copyright, 1913, by American-Journal-Examiner.

This editorial and the picture near it are not pleasant, but they may help along the work of stamping out disease—which is one of the important tasks of this day.

In ordinary loud conversation a man cursed with grippe can send the germs flying thirty feet in front of him as he talks.

When a man coughs or sneezes violently, he scatters microbes to a distance that only the microbes, perhaps, could estimate correctly.

It is certain that the poor fellow, ill-bred and reckless, who with face uncovered coughs or sneezes in a street car or other public place risks infecting with his cold and any other complaint lodged in his mucous membrane as many human beings as there are near him.

We have laws now that arrest and punish a man for spitting in public, which is a beginning of decency.

But remember that the man who coughs and sneezes with his face uncovered does more harm even than the other ill-bred savage who spits upon the floor.

Sneezing and coughing are processes by which nature kills germs and ejects them from the system.

Sneezing is beneficial to the sneezer, and poisonous to those near him, when he lacks the decency to cover up his face.

The man constantly seen and heard in public places sneezing and coughing violently with his face uncovered and looking rather proud of himself, because he can sneeze so ably, should be treated with contempt like any other yahoo.

We cannot, perhaps, arrest a man for coughing and sneezing with face uncovered—although we know that such conduct is ABSOLUTELY RESPONSIBLE FOR EPIDEMICS OF GRIPPE AND OF OTHER DISEASES.

But it is possible, through public contempt, to teach better manners.

This picture shows you, in a manner not at all exaggerated, except for the size and shape of the microbes, what one offensive human being can accomplish in the way of scattering disease. One such man in a day scatters germs in millions. Public opinion should control him, even if the law cannot control him.

Mankind can stamp out the invisible disease germs as monstrous animals have been stamped out. And the wiping out of disease requires only common sense, decency and consideration for others. Make your children especially understand this. The next generation should do the work that this generation neglects.

A General Strike Should Be the LAST Resort of Telephone Operators

forth an honor to their sex, or to the other sex, for that matter, cool, brave, efficient, resourceful, doggedly persistent, cheerful and willing to sacrifice everything."

We may be sure that the telephone operators of metropolitan Boston are as brave and as self-sacrificing as their sisters anywhere in the United States. And we are firm in the belief that Thomas Sherwin, chairman of the telephone company's Board of Directors, and consequently, perhaps, the most powerful INDIVIDUAL in its organization, will have in mind today, as he had in mind fifty years ago, the GREATEST GOOD OF THE GREATEST NUMBER.

The LARGEST interest in this telephone controversy is the interest of the PUBLIC, the interest of 1,500,000 people, to whom the telephone is a NECESSITY. Neither side in the LABOR controversy can afford to sacrifice the respect, the good wishes and the SUPPORT of this great public.

And so we say, to BOTH sides, ARBITRATE! Sit down and reason together, with the members of the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation to help you, and thus avoid a strike which is sure to cost millions in money, great public inconvenience, and, it may be, untold suffering.
